

TWO MORE ARRESTS IN ALCOHOL PROBE

MOTHER OF MOVIE STAR KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

VERA STEADMAN AND
AL CHRISTIE HURT;
CHAUFFEUR UNHURT

Mrs. H. Prevost Victim—
Party Was Motoring To
Palm Beach

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 6.—Mrs. H. Prevost, mother of Marie Prevost, motion picture star was killed and Al Christie, comedy producer and Vera Steadman, actress, were seriously injured in an auto accident twenty three miles east of Lordsburg, New Mexico, according to advices here today.

The machine in which the film party was riding overturned, it was said, while traveling about thirty miles an hour on a slippery road.

Christie and Miss Steadman were pinned under the wreckage and narrowly escaped death. The actress sustained bruises and lacerations about the face and lower limbs while Christie escaped with a lacerated arm and head.

The chauffeur of the machine, owned by Miss Steadman, escaped unhurt. The producer and Miss Steadman are in the hospital at Lordsburg. After the inquest the body of Mrs. Prevost was to be brought to Los Angeles. The film party left Hollywood last Wednesday headed for Palm Beach, Fla.

SOVIET COURIER IS KILLED BY BANDITS

Moscow, Feb. 6.—Attacked by masked bandits on a train near Riga, one Soviet diplomatic courier named Nette was killed and a second named Makhmatal was severely wounded, according to word here today.

Though Makhmatal's body was pierced with four bullets and he was in great agony, he clung to the mail pouches and their secret contents until Riga was reached when he turned them over to soviet colleagues.

The incident has caused deep indignation here and the soviet government had demanded of the Latvian government a prompt investigation.

Details of the holdup are lacking, but it is assumed the bandits sought to get the documents Nette and Makhmatal were carrying.

GOVERNOR SUMMONS NILES OFFICIALS

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—Gov. Donahey today forwarded letters to Mayor Harvey Kistler and Safety Director O. O. Hewitt, of Niles, summoning the two officials to appear before him next week to answer affidavits filed against them by the Rev. Robert Ketchum and John Barrett, a former police lieutenant, both of Niles.

The governor refused to indicate whether Ketchum and Barrett, as rumored, had filed charges of "neglect of duty" against the two officials.

Publication of the affidavits will depend upon the outcome of the conference, the Governor said.

The affidavits also were reported to accuse the officials of "failure to enforce the prohibition laws."

SOLDIERS TO GUARD ALLEGED SLAYER

Georgetown, Del., Feb. 6.—Delaware today took a leaf from the book of Kentucky court caution by planning to mobilize three national guard batteries during the trial of a negro here, Monday.

The guardsmen will be armed with machine guns and rifles and will surround the courthouse where Harry Butler is to go on trial charged with criminal assault of 12-year-old Elvora Steinhart, white, of Bridgeville.

Gov. Robinson issued the proclamation arranging for presence of the guardsmen.

ITALIAN TOWN IS SHAKEN BY QUAKE

Florence, Italy, Feb. 6.—Earth tremors early today terrified the town of Castelfiorentino, eighteen miles from here and sent inhabitants scurrying out of their houses to spend the remainder of the night out doors. No damage was done but the quake lasted several seconds.

(Castelfiorentino is a town of 5,000 inhabitants.)

Monaco's Ruler Would Wed U. S. Dollar Princess

Prince Louis of Monaco, ruler of Monte Carlo, wants an American bride to share his tiny throne, and is coming over soon to look for one at Palm Beach.

ROOSEVELTS ON WAY HOME AFTER TAKING MANY RARE ANIMALS

Armor Plated Rhino Is In
Collection Of Explorers

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Bringing with them rare trophies, including the hide of an "armor-plated" rhinoceros, Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his brother Kermit are on the seas, homeward bound from their ten months hunt in Central Asia, according to a cablegram received here today by James Simpson, millionaire department store man who financed the expedition.

The Roosevelts are on their way from Bombay to Marseilles, France, from where they will sail for the United States.

Aside from the "armor plated" rhino the Roosevelts bagged Royal Bengal tigers, Indian antelopes, leopards, hogs and axis deer and more than 200 birds and smaller animals. The trophies are in addition to the Ovis Poli (Marco Polo sheep)—primary object of the trip—which the Roosevelts secured in the Pamir mountains, up near the "roof of the world."

Eleven specimens of the rare Tien Shan ibex, barked in the Tien Shan mountains at the altitude of from 15,000 to 18,000 feet, are in the Roosevelt collection.

New York, Feb. 6.—Aboard the liner Olympic, only a few hours out of New York, pounding her way toward Europe today is a "Ben Smith" and a "Henrietta Fuller."

Report has it that "Smith" is James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank and that Miss "Fuller" is Anne U. Stillman, his wife, whose marital affairs have filled columns in the newspapers.

"Smith" and "Miss Fuller" occupy separate staterooms, but published reports declare they are off on a "trial reconciliation," that attorneys have been dismissed and that for the sake of their children further legal proceedings are to be dropped.

The little group protesting against certain features of the measure are staging an extensive battle over the majority's decision to prevent further income tax publicity. Chairman

TAX REDUCTION BILL TO BE PASSED BEFORE NEXT WEEK END IS REPORT

Washington, Feb. 6.—The new $352,000,000 tax reduction bill will be passed quietly or by main force in the senate before the end of next week, virtually without change from the form in which it was reported by the finance committee.

This seemed assured today when the Republican majority made known a decision to use the cloture rule next Thursday if the opposition forces delay in a final vote beyond that date.

Night sessions will be held next week. The little group protesting against certain features of the measure are staging an extensive battle over the majority's decision to prevent further income tax publicity. Chairman

Smoot of the finance committee, prophesied he would have a vote by tonight but the opposition indicated there would be no vote before Monday if it then.

Senator Coughens chairman of the internal revenue bureau, has collected a tremendous quantity of facts and figures he wished to introduce in support of his position for complete publicity before the vote is taken and a half dozen other speeches are on schedule.

Smoot will order night sessions beginning Monday, in the hope that the long sessions will wear down the opposition until they submit to the vote.

DONAHEY WILL GIVE AKRON MAN HEARING AT TRUSTEE MEETING

School Alumni Back Of Move That Delays Naming
President

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—A meeting of the board of trustees of Kent State Normal College, at Kent, February 15, was called today by Governor Donahey who announced that Joseph B. Hanan, Akron, who charged the board with neglect of duty, will be given an opportunity to testify.

Hanan Wednesday appealed to the governor to use his influence to defer the appointment of a successor to Dr. John E. McGilvrey, deposed president of Kent, declaring the board of trustees "did not have the interests of the school at heart."

Hanan, now president of the Akron board of education, is a Kent alumnus.

Eleven other members of the Kent Alumni Association signed the appeal. Gov. Donahey will attend the meeting and Hanan will be notified that he will be given an opportunity to present evidence to substantiate his allegations.

Kent, O., Feb. 6.—Unperturbed by charges that the board of trustees, had been guilty of various offenses in administration of Kent State Normal College, David Ladd Rockwell, president of the board today announced a successor to Dr. John E. McGilvrey, deposed president, may be selected late today or Monday.

Appointment of a new business manager for the college will be announced at the same time the new president is selected, Rockwell said.

The former business manager was ousted with Dr. McGilvrey. Both were accused of promoting an unauthorized "on to Europe tour" for Kent students.

Among those known to be under consideration for the presidency is H. D. Byrne, head of the department of history and science and Lester S. Ivins, head of the department of agriculture, both of Kent.

Youngstown, Feb. 6.—The charge by Joseph B. Hanan, president of the Akron board of education that the board of trustees of Kent State Normal College "vacated office through neglect of duty" was denied by William Courson, superintendent of the East Youngstown schools and one of the Kent trustees named by Hanan.

LEWIS TO FILE

Columbus, Feb. 6.—Resolutions urging him to become a candidate for the R. publican nomination for governor will be presented today to Lieut. Gov. Charles T. Lewis, at Harpersburg, by a committee headed by Beecher Waltemire, Columbus, appointed at a meeting here yesterday of Lewis backers from all over the state.

SLASHES SON

Gloucester, Feb. 6.—Carl Love is held in jail here pending the outcome of wounds he is alleged to have inflicted on his son, Russell Love, 20. The father said he acted in self defense. The boy was slashed with a knife.

RICH GIRL PROVES SHE CAN EARN WAY

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 6. (UP)—From society girl to shop girl on a bet—a rise to floor manager in two months—and head of one of the most important departments of the Hall Brothers company, at the end of three months, is the remarkable story of Miss Helen Sawyer, daughter of a retired steel magnate here.

Miss Sawyer asked for a job on a bet after being told she didn't have the nerve at a dance in November. In December she was floor manager and recently she was named head of the service department.

BLAMED FOR ROBBERY

Lancaster, Feb. 6.—Three escaped inmates of the boys industrial school are blamed for the burglary of a store at Sugar Grove when three complete outfits of clothing were taken.

Leo Frank Case Governor Tries Poll Comeback

John M. Slaton, above, twice governor of Georgia, whose commutation of the death sentence of Leo Frank in 1915 aroused a national controversy, is again a candidate for the office. He was absent from the state for some years after taking the action.

FARMERS LEAVE FOR HOMES AS FARM WEEK PROGRAM CONCLUDED

Dean Alfred Vivian Praises
Progress Of Farm
Interests

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—More than 4,000 Buckeye farmers and farm wives, who attended annual farm week at Ohio State University here, were returning to their homes today, fortified with reams of data on scientific farming, domestic science and live stock raising.

Farm week was brought to a formal close last night by Dean Alfred Vivian of the college of agriculture who praised the farmers for their progress and urged a spirit of idealism among them.

While farm week was becoming a thing of the past, the annual convention of the Buckeye Press Association also was adjourning. The editors were addressed by Charles L. Knight, publisher of the Akron Beacon Journal, who criticized "Government extravagance."

Knight declared the cost of the state government had increased 400 per cent in the past ten years and thirty per cent in the past two years. He advocated the removal of 3,000 employees from the state payrolls.

The Press Association adopted a resolution endorsing a bill now before congress which would prevent the government from printing return addresses on envelopes. This printing alone entails a loss of $6,000,000 annually to American printers, the resolution said.

HE'S TOO YOUNG TO BE PLACED ON SHELF

Youngstown, Ohio, Feb. 6. (UP)—When a man reaches the age of three score years and ten he settles back in the old easy chair and awaits the end.

But not so with Hamilton Harris, a carefully dressed gentleman of 32 years. Harris is the newly elected first vice president of the Mahoning Valley Mortgage company, a $750,000 corporation.

Looking far younger than his years, Harris has a keen alert mind, sound business sense and possesses cool, calm and collected judgment.

WILL SHOOT DOGS Chilliechee, Feb. 6—Homeless, tagless and muzzelless dogs in Chilliechee will be shot on sight, by a patrolman delegated for that work, Mayor Gunning announced after a conference with health authorities.

TO BEAUTIFY GROUNDS

Chilliechee, Feb. 6.—The Federal government will be asked for an appropriation of about $20,000 to beautify the grounds at the Veteran's Hospital here, according to Dr. C. A. Rowland, in charge of the institution.

KING'S MEDALS ARE GIVEN OFFICERS OF LINER FOR HEROISM

Royal Welcome For Roosevelt
Crews Is Staged
By British

(By United Press)
Southampton, Feb. 6.—Medals from England's King were bestowed today upon the heroes of the U. S. Line steamer President Roosevelt for their rescue of the British crew of the tramp freighter Antiope in mid-ocean.

The Roosevelt put into Southampton enroute to America, amid the din of sirens from the liners Majestic and Aquitania and the plaudits of Englishmen and women, stirred by the courage of Skipper Captain Fried and his life savers.

At the masthead of the British liners waved the Stars and Stripes. Their crews were lined along the rail and shouted as Fried and First Officer Robert Miller, left the bridge and went down the gang plank to be greeted by the welcoming committee.

Over the entrance to the pier was a huge placard with the inscription "Bravo" and as Fried and his men appeared, the admirers ashore took up that cry "Bravo, Bravo."

After Captain Fried and Miller had welcomed the official group the presentations of the King's medals were made in the dining room of the Roosevelt.

With the crew gathered about, Philip Runciman, introduced President Cunliffe-Lister of the board of trade. Presentations of the medals from the King were made by Cunliffe-Lister. A hush fell over the throng as he rose to speak.

"I am commanded by the King," he said, "to express to you, Captain Fried, his Majesty's regret that your short stay at Southampton did not admit of his seeing you in London and thanking you and your crew for their gallant services."

"The rescue," he added, "exceeds the imagination and earns the gratitude of the whole British race."

Fried, deeply moved, responded, thanking Britain for its wonderful hospitality and expressing his appreciation of the honors done him and his men by the King, the government and by Britons, throughout the empire.

Then it was Miller's turn. He spoke modestly and thankfully of the honors due the heroes.

Then as the men proudly displayed their medals the ship's orchestra burst into "God Save the King," and "The Star Spangled Banner" while Britisher and Yankee sang the refrains.

DIogenes SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THIS

Minerva, O., Feb. 6.—State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, who is ticket agent for a Rochester Railroad, has started a "conscience" fund.

Emmons has received the following letter:
"Enclosed find $1. Some time ago I bought a ticket which the conductor did not collect. I used it again and rode on same from your station."

"I do not feel I can be a Christian and not make it right so please turn this into the company and may God bless you."

"His servant."

WILL SHOOT DOGS Chilliechee, Feb. 6—Homeless, tagless and muzzelless dogs in Chilliechee will be shot on sight, by a patrolman delegated for that work, Mayor Gunning announced after a conference with health authorities.

TO BEAUTIFY GROUNDS

Chilliechee, Feb. 6.—The Federal government will be asked for an appropriation of about $20,000 to beautify the grounds at the Veteran's Hospital here, according to Dr. C. A. Rowland, in charge of the institution.

BLASPHEMY LAW ENACTED BY EARLY PURITANS USED IN MODERN TRIAL

Boston, Mass., Feb. 6.—If Luther Burbank or Clarence Darrow should voice their disbelief in God in Massachusetts they would be prosecuted under the old blasphemy law enacted seventy-seven years after the Mayflower "docked," Attorney General Jay R. Benton said today.

"Fact that the blasphemy law, enacted in 1697, is still on the statute books as a survival of the Puritan Blue Laws, would make it necessary for us to take action against Darrow, Burbank or other disbelievers, should they air their views on religion in Massachusetts," Benton said.

The attorney general made this statement in discussing the forthcoming trial in Brooklyn of Anthony Binba, editor of the Communist newspaper "Freedom" of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Binba will go on trial Wednesday charged with violation of the blas-

RUMORED STILLMAN SAILS WITH WIFE AS TROUBLES SETTLED

Reported Trip Would Halt
Court Action To Get
Divorce

(By United Press)
New York, Feb. 6.—"I know nothing about it and have nothing to say," was the only comment former Gov. Nathan L. Miller attorney for James I. Stillman made today upon a published report that Stillman and his wife had sailed together on the liner Olympic and that their marital difficulties were now to be marked by reconciliation instead of further proceedings.

Such a development would bring to a close a series of court hearings that has marked one of the most sensational divorce hearings in the history of New York. Through the various proceedings Stillman charged that Fred Beaveaus, French Canadian Indian was the father of baby Guy Stillman. The legitimacy of the child, however, was upheld. Mrs. Stillman named beautiful Flo Leeds, former chorus girl in her suit.

Stillman admitted the paternity of Jay Leeds, a son born to the former chorus girl.

ANOTHER UNIVERSE EXISTS SAYS SCIENCE

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Proof that another universe with stars and nebulae in the heavens like ours exists cut in space inconceivably distant from the earth has been presented by Dr. Edwin P. Hubble in the Astro-Physical Journal, publication of the University of Chicago, it was announced today.

Dr. Hubble made his observation at Mount Wilson observatory.

Measuring the distance from the earth to the exterior galaxy, which is similar in many ways to our own, although entirely out of the earth galactic system, Dr. Hubble found that it is about 700,000 light years away or approximately 66,509,872,000,000 miles. According to his compilation it is 400,000 light years across. Its general appearance is like that of the Magellanic clouds, the mass of nebulae lighting the way in the skies of the southern hemisphere.

The galaxy was first seen in 1884.

WOMAN WHO WOUNDED GROGER HELD IN JAIL

Urbana, O., Feb. 6.—Mrs. Emma Goodbar, of Lima, who walked into the Loverde fruit store here yesterday and shot and wounded Lawrence Loverde, one of the proprietors, was held in jail today in lieu of $2,000 bond. ## INTERNAL REVENUE COLLECTORS NAMED IN WET CONSPIRACY

Say Official Received
Weekly Payments From
Superior Co.

(By United Press)
Cleveland, O., Feb. 6.—With the arrest of a Cleveland lawyer expected momentarily, two deputy revenue collectors were arrested here today on charges of conspiracy in connection with operations of the Superior Industrial Alcohol Company.

The deputies were Charles E. Cummings and Albert Oertel, the latter chief of the alcohol division of the internal revenue department.

Cummings was suspended several months ago, prior to which he was engaged in checking justice court liquor cases.

Oertel, according to government investigators received $200 a week from the Superior Company for supplying advance information on government raids and hearings. His arrest was brought about by Harry Grossberg, a former bootlegger, who declared Oertel introduced him to Armand Gardos, a former client.

Grossberg testified in the recent Hayner liquor conspiracy some time ago.

Oertel and Cummings were grilled late yesterday by George A. Goldman of the federal treasury department and his aides. Subsequently warrants were sworn out charging the agents were co-conspirators with Walter J. Gillen, president of the Superior Company and nineteen others accused of plotting to flood the country between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic ocean with Alcohol.

Records of Oertel's department have been completely checked and evidence has been obtained, substantiating the charge that he received $200 a week from the Superior Company, Goldman asserted.

Other employees of the department are under investigation, according to Goldman.

A grand jury investigation of operations of the Superior Company is scheduled to get under way next week. More than one hundred witnesses have been subpoenaed.

The Hayner whiskey case which implicated Oertel, resulted in the conviction of J. E. Russell, then Ohio federal prohibition director, his chief clerk, M. B. Copeland and Warren Barnett, a Columbus attorney.

SAY PRINCE WILL RESUME HIS RIGHTS

Vienna, Feb. 6.—Reports, unconfirmed from any source were circulated here today that Crown Prince Carol of Rumania had withdrawn his previous renunciation of throne rights.

Aspirin Gargle in Sore Throat or Tonsilitis

Prepare a harmless and effective gargle by dissolving two "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in four tablespoons of water. Gargle throat thoroughly. Repeat in two hours if necessary.

Be sure you use only the genuine Bayer Aspirin, marked with the Bayer Cross, which can be had in tin boxes of twelve tablets for few cents.

Xenia Delphian Chapter will meet with Mrs. H. A. Hoffmann Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. George Eckerle, E. Main St., have as their guest, Mr. Thomas Thuma, Saratoga, Ind.

Miss Katherine Kuhlman, Dayton, is the week end houseguest of Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, N. King St.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mason, Wilmington Pike, have returned from Ashley, O., where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Mason's uncle, Mr. Burton Olds. Mrs. Mason's mother, Mrs. Mina Oglesbee, near Xenia, was with Mr. Olds at the time of death. Mrs. Oglesbee remained for a visit with her sister. Mr. Olds is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. Harold Clase, who is well known here.

Mr. Frank Morrow, Dayton R. R. 12, underwent a serious operation at McClellan Hospital, this city, Friday. He is recuperating from the ordeal favorably.

JOIE RAY HAS HAD ENOUGH PUNCHING BAGS SAYS EXPERT

BY JOHN SORDS

Who is the best runner in the world? Ask Joie Ray, America's premier middle distance runner, and he will tell you that he and no one else is the greatest.

Ray wants to return to the amateur ranks and has petitioned the Central A. A. U. to reinstate him. He recently turned professional to give bag punching exhibitions in a Chicago department store.

Joie has complete confidence in his ability as a runner. He is of the opinion that a man can do anything if he only thinks so. He thinks so. He thinks that the power and speed of his legs will put him ahead of any man he races, and most generally it is true.

On the ship carrying the American Olympic athletes to Antwerp in 1920, Ray passed out postcards on which were written, "From Joie Ray, the world's greatest runner."

One might gather from this that Ray is objectionable because of his "chesty" attitude. It isn't true. On the contrary he is very well liked because of his confidence in himself.

Joie runs with the perfect rhythm of a motor, his legs, as pistons, keeping uniform time. He needs no one to set a pace. Usually he takes the lead as soon as possible, and with his keen judgment of speed will make the mile in whatever speed he thinks is necessary to win. If he wants to make it in 4:30 he regulates his speed accordingly and usually finishes within a second of the allotted time.

No other runner in the history of sport has run a mile in 4:20 or better as many times as Ray. Since winning the mile championship for the first time in 1915, he established the record of making the mile in better than 4:21 forty-seven times.

Recently he has received so many invitations to run in various parts of the country that he wants to return to the amateur ranks. He has also been invited to compete in professional races, but prefers the amateurs. If the A. A. U. officials continue to turn a deaf ear to his wishes, Ray can expose the methods in vogue among "amateur" runners of this as well as foreign countries.

It might be well for the officials to see that Ray is reinstated, for no other reason than to block a serious blow at amateur track events in the United States.

MAN WITH BROKEN BACK ABLE TO WALK

Although he received a broken back when he fell from a pole while at work for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., on the Jamestown Pike, two months ago, Lloyd Perviss, Springfield, is on the road to recovery and is able to walk.

His back is encased in a plaster cast and after careful attention from attendants at McClellan Hospital, where he has been since the accident, his recovery is assured. He was able to leave his bed a few days ago and is gradually learning to walk again.

Mrs. Perviss, a bride of a few weeks when the accident occurred, has been with her husband during his recuperation.

NEW YORK SPORTING FRATERNITY INTERESTED IN GAMBLING CASES

James M. Allison, formerly of Urbana, O., who conducts a syndicated column called "New York Day by Day," writes that the New York City sporting fraternity is awaking with considerable interest the decision of the Ohio Supreme Court in six cases involving construction of the anti-gambling law in Ohio, appealed by Attorney C. L. Darlington, Xenia, attacking convictions of clients, several months ago in Probate Court for selling racing pools and recording wagers on horse races.

Sporting men anticipate the establishment of a legal precedent of importance. Mr. Allison declares. His comment follows:

"New York sporting men are awaiting with a good deal of interest, the decision of the Ohio Supreme Court in certain cases involving wagers on race horses. They anticipate the establishment of a legal precedent of considerable importance—to them, at least.

"The matter was taken before the Supreme Court by Charles L. Darlington, attorney for six persons convicted in the Probate Court of Greene County, of making wagers on horse races.

"In the trial, the state proved its case by introducing copies of daily newspapers containing race results. The court accepted the newspaper reports as establishing the fact that certain races had occurred.

"Attorney Darlington appealed the cases on the ground that the newspaper evidence was essentially hearsay evidence, and that for competent proof the state must present witnesses to testify that they had actually seen the race on which a wager was made.

"Sporting men here are advised by their attorneys that the point raised by Mr. Darlington is entirely sound in law. They believe that the decision of the Supreme Court may be such that witnesses must be brought from race tracks, wherever they may be located, in order to permit of a conviction where making wagers is charged."

LECTURER WILL BE HEARD ON LYCEUM COURSE AT SCHOOL

An address by Sam Grathwell, noted lecturer and known as Lyceum's "Pep-timist," will feature the fourth number of the Central High School Lyceum Course at the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium, Thursday night, February 11.

Mr. Grathwell once sold newspapers in Cincinnati to help support the family and later spent many years employed as a factory hand, barrel painter, ditch digger, saloon porter, waiter, elevator boy and salesman.

He studied at night school at the age of ten and working his own way, entered Berea College, Berea, Ky., at twenty-one. Nine years later he received his A. B. degree at Leland Stanford University and while in his senior year, won highest forensic honors.

Subjects of his lectures are: "Getting By Your Hoodoo;" "Wake Up and Get Up;" "Tinkers and Thinkers;" and other subjects.

BOWERSVILLE WILL HAVE INSTITUTE ON MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Monday's session will open at 9:30 a.m., with music by Bowersville school and audience. The Rev. C. M. Read, Christian Church, will give the invocation. President's address will be delivered by A. B. Lewis, Jamestown.

Three addresses followed by discussion will feature the program. The first will be given by Mrs. Geneva Steiner, Wapakoneta, O., on "Elements of Achievement." Superintendent Milner, Bowersville Schools will lead the discussion.

William McD. Stone, Atwater, O., will talk on "What Is Your Ideal of a Farm Home?" with discussion led by Mrs. John Chitty. H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent will give a talk on "Thrifty" with A. L. Fisher, in charge of the discussion.

Mr. Stone will talk on "Legumes For Ohio Farmers" at the afternoon session, opening at 12:30 with discussion led by James Hite and Wilbur Beard. Mrs. Steiner will discuss "The Girl and Her Chum" followed by general discussion in charge of the Rev. Bertha Day. Mrs. W. W. Barrett, Jamestown, will talk about "The Lunch Box" after which Mrs. Nick Cursh will lead a discussion. J. R. Kimber, county Farm Bureau agent will speak on "The Relation of the County Agent to the People" with discussion led by John Chitty.

Mrs. Steiner will talk on "The Great Rural Need of Today" at the evening session, which opens at 7:30 and Mr. Stone will speak on "Sun-up For the American Farmer." Addresses will be interspersed with music by the Jefferson Twp. High School Orchestra and prayer by the Rev. J. P. Clark, M. P. Church.

Mrs. Otis Tobin and Mrs. H. J. Thomas will lead discussion on "Woman's Rights in the Home," topic of the Tuesday morning address of Mrs. Steiner. Manager C. L. McGwyn and D. A. Oliver will have charge of the discussion on "The Co-operative Elevator." Mr. Stone's morning topic. The Rev. H. L. Leasure, Friends Church will lead in invocation.

Election of officers will be held at the Tuesday afternoon session, following prayer by the Rev. C. M. Read, Christian Church. Presentation of prizes in the poster contest to children will be made next. "The Need of Phosphorus" is Mr. Stone's Tuesday afternoon topic with discussion led by Ray Garringer. "Good Literature in the Home" will be Mrs. Steiner's subject, with discussion led by the Rev. H. L. Leasure, of Grassy Run Church.

Dinner will be served at the school each day.

EXISTENCE OF THREE FEDERAL BODIES THREATENED

A. H. Baldwin.

Thomas F. Woodlock.

Richard V. Taylor.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Have the tariff, federal trade and interstate commerce commissions outlived their usefulness?

The question is being asked seriously by senators while the activities of the three bodies are undergoing close examination in connection with senatorial scrutiny of recent presidential appointments to the memberships of the commission.

Nominations of A. H. Baldwin and Edgar B. Brossard to be members of the tariff commission; and Thomas F. Woodlock and Richard V. Taylor, to the I. C. C., have not been approved. The president is meeting opposition from his own party in his efforts to push through approval of them. With the world court out of the way, the issue brought up by these appointments is the big act on the Washington political stage.

Democrats accuse Mr. Coolidge of tampering illegally with independent government agencies, to convert them to partisan purposes. Republicans while defending the president of the charge, are wondering if the commissions, long the cause of political warfare, aren't more trouble than they are worth. Sen. Reed Smoot, standpat Republican, is the sponsor commission, while David A. Reed of Pennsylvania is pushing an attack on the Interstate commerce commission.

Overstep Separation Theory.

President Coolidge's attitude as revealed in his appointments is that these commissions should reflect the executive temper. The attitude of Congress, as shown in the debates when the commissions were created, was that they should be multiple, so that the vast power they were to exercise should not fall within one person's hands.

Thomas F. Woodlock. This divergence of view is in part responsible for the present investigations.

There is the prospect, in addition that the wisdom of hypenating governmental powers originally intended to be held apart will be earnestly debated. For the fact that these commissions, and many others, are both prosecutors and judges is one of the principal grounds for dissatisfaction with them.

Although the constitution looks to the strict separation of the legislative, judicial and executive functions, the commissions, bureaus, and boards set up during the last forty years in Washington combine sometimes two, sometimes all three of these powers. They are judges, policemen, prosecutors and law-makers "rolled into one."

The Interstate Commerce Commission, formed in 1887, was the first of them to attempt the supervision and regulation of business enterprise.

There are eleven Interstate Commerce Commissioners, each at a salary of $12,000 a year, with an immense staff of engineers, land appraisers, statistical analysts, examiners, lawyers, secretaries, clerks, and workmen skilled and unskilled. The commission helped the President liquidate war-time control of the common carriers; it is handling the railroad valuation problem; it does an enormous statistical and accounting work; it looks after rates, facilities, and classifications; it supervises the issue of Railway stocks and bonds, and is the final authority on the safety of passengers, employees and property. When mergers are contemplated, it has the deciding voice.

Abolishment of All Sought. The complaint has often been voiced that it has left in its trail a long line of receiverships and bankruptcies.

Richard V. Taylor. that it has crippled the transportation system, that it was bungling and inefficient.

The Federal trade commission, in its executive capacity, gathers reports, makes investigations, supervises export trade associations and has published accusations against offenders; in its quasi-judicial capacity it interprets the Sherman anti-trust law, it has authority to act as master in chancery, and under its present procedure it may "administer the pledge" to officers and let them off so long as they observe the law. It lays down a boy of rulings which are subsidiary law as truly as the rulings of the income tax unit of the treasury department are law to the taxpayers, and these regulations are evidence of the legislative function of the commission.

The tariff commission, as at first constituted, was an administrative fact-finding agency; but with the enactment of the tariff act of 1922, containing the "flexible" clause it came to exercise a quasi-judicial function. It now at discretion makes recommendations in its reports to the president. It was the intention of Congress authorities explain, that, although its delegation of rate-changing power to the president was "in form," it was "designed by the framers of the provision that the commission should virtually be the duty-adjusting body." This it has never been, and there has been much complaint about it in Congress.

It is the contention now of men of both parties that having been given a fair trial, the commissions have proved failures, and that they ought to be abolished.

The investigations promise to be better than sensational; there is the hope that they may prove instructive lessons in the art of government.

Rudolph Raymond, of Italy, fell in love with a girl on an Italian Red Cross poster, traced her to the U. S. tried to make a date with her on the telephone, and was pinched. The judge told him the girl was already married.

A young Chicago bride, lonesome because her husband stayed out late shooting craps, learned to roll the dice herself and now he stays home to play with her.

Charles Garfield Keene, president of the city council has had to put locks on the doors of the conference rooms in the City Hall to prevent poker parties being held there at night.

A huge negro in Maidstone, England, is having the time of his life making the community support him. He does not mind jail and will not work, being content to sit still, sleep, and be fed.

Dr. M. V. Mayfield, of Mena, Ark., practiced medicine in that town for more than 25 years and built up a large and devoted practice before it was discovered that the doctor was a woman. She is 74.

Ethelbert Stewart, commissioner of labor statistics of the labor department, told the National Recreation Conference that a little petting on a dark bench was a beneficial recreation for tired working girls and men.

HORSEPLAY IN THE CLASSROOM.

IN attempting to shame girl students who make use of rouge and cosmetics too openly by applying it no matter where they may be, an instructor in the University of California told his class the young men would be warranted in coming into the school room to shave, considering the example set by the young women. He said he would be tempted to give high marks to any brave enough to do it. Three students took him at his word and shaved themselves in class the following day. He assured them they would be the recipients of high marks.

We know the college man gets farthest in the end, but it is just such things as this that make it difficult for him to get a start. Earnest college students, of course, are in the majority in any institution of learning but the so-called pranks of other students give the public the impression that every college graduate, fresh from school, is just another of those rah-rah persons. Many men of good practical common sense actually hold a college graduate in contempt and feel that their education is a detriment rather than an asset. It is not real education they feel dubious about, of course, but the kind of education they think has been acquired.

Unfortunately, it is not the solid, but the frivolous features of college life, that get the most publicity and it is from that the less thoughtful get their impressions. Usually there things have been manifested in student pranks and in the nature of college publications, some of which have been so raw that they have been barred from the mails. Now, it appears that the faculty is becoming contaminated with the horseplay spirit, too.

MUCH DISCUSSED SUBJECT.

BESIDES being the "root of all evil," money seems to be the subject about which more has been written than any other. Every philosopher since the age of barter has speculated on the institution of money, and it is apparent the philosophers of the future will find the subject no less diverting, and there are good reasons to believe as long as there are philosophers they will find new phases of the question on which to philosophize.

True to the typically American instinct to couple money with work, John D. Rockefeller says of money: "I determined that, in addition to working for money, I would make money work for me."

In his monumental work, "The Principles of Political Economy," John Stuart Mill came to the conclusion that "money is a commodity and its value is determined, like other commodities, temporarily by demand and supply, permanently and on the average by cost of production."

"Money amassed either serves or rules us," sagely wrote Horace, and just as wisely Bacon wrote, "Money is like manure; of little use unless it be spread."

Dr. Johnson, who made much money but was not prevented by that fact from being often in the want of it, learned from life that "money, in whatever hands, will confer power."

"Money is the root of all evil" is a household adage and suggests this quotation from Fielding: "Money is the fruit of evil as often as the root of it."

George Bernard Shaw has acquired a goodly share of the world's material wealth by creating from his cold and cynical intellect such typically Shawian bits as "Any fool can save money; it takes a wise man to spend it." From the works of his prototype, Samuel Butler, is called this gem of Solomonic wisdom: "Money is like a reputation for ability—more easily made than kept."

As for the "unthinking" public, it also finds in money a subject for conversation, some finding the lack of it the cause of much sorrow and suffering.

COURTESY A TRAFFIC ART.

AS pointed out in the latest survey of the American Automobile association of motor problems, the elimination of much of the danger in motor traffic depends very much upon the courtesy of the road, the unwritten law of the road, the observance of those rules which exist by common consent and expediency, which have not been reduced to writing.

The survey reveals that the reaction of the average motorist toward rule, written and unwritten, is to observe those dictated by the law and enforced by the police, but to disregard the unwritten maxims of safety.

We have reached a point where the statutes are overburdened with commands and prohibitions. The real need is for the strict observance of the dictates of conscience and good sense, for that courtesy, that regard for the rights, privileges, comfort and safety of others which would make the writing of further traffic laws unnecessary.

Just Folks

WHAT A WOMAN WANTS

This is what a woman wants:
One with laughter in his eyes,
Soft and gentle when he speaks,
Strong and brave and very wise;
One whose company is fair,
Free from petulance and whining;
One who with a happy air
Gossips with her when he's dining.

WHAT A WOMAN WANTS

This is what a woman wants:
One whose love for her will last
Longer than a few glad weeks,
And the first sharp, stinging blast
One who'll never do her wrong,
Never shame the name she's taken,
One who, though the years be long,
Still will keep her faith unshaken.

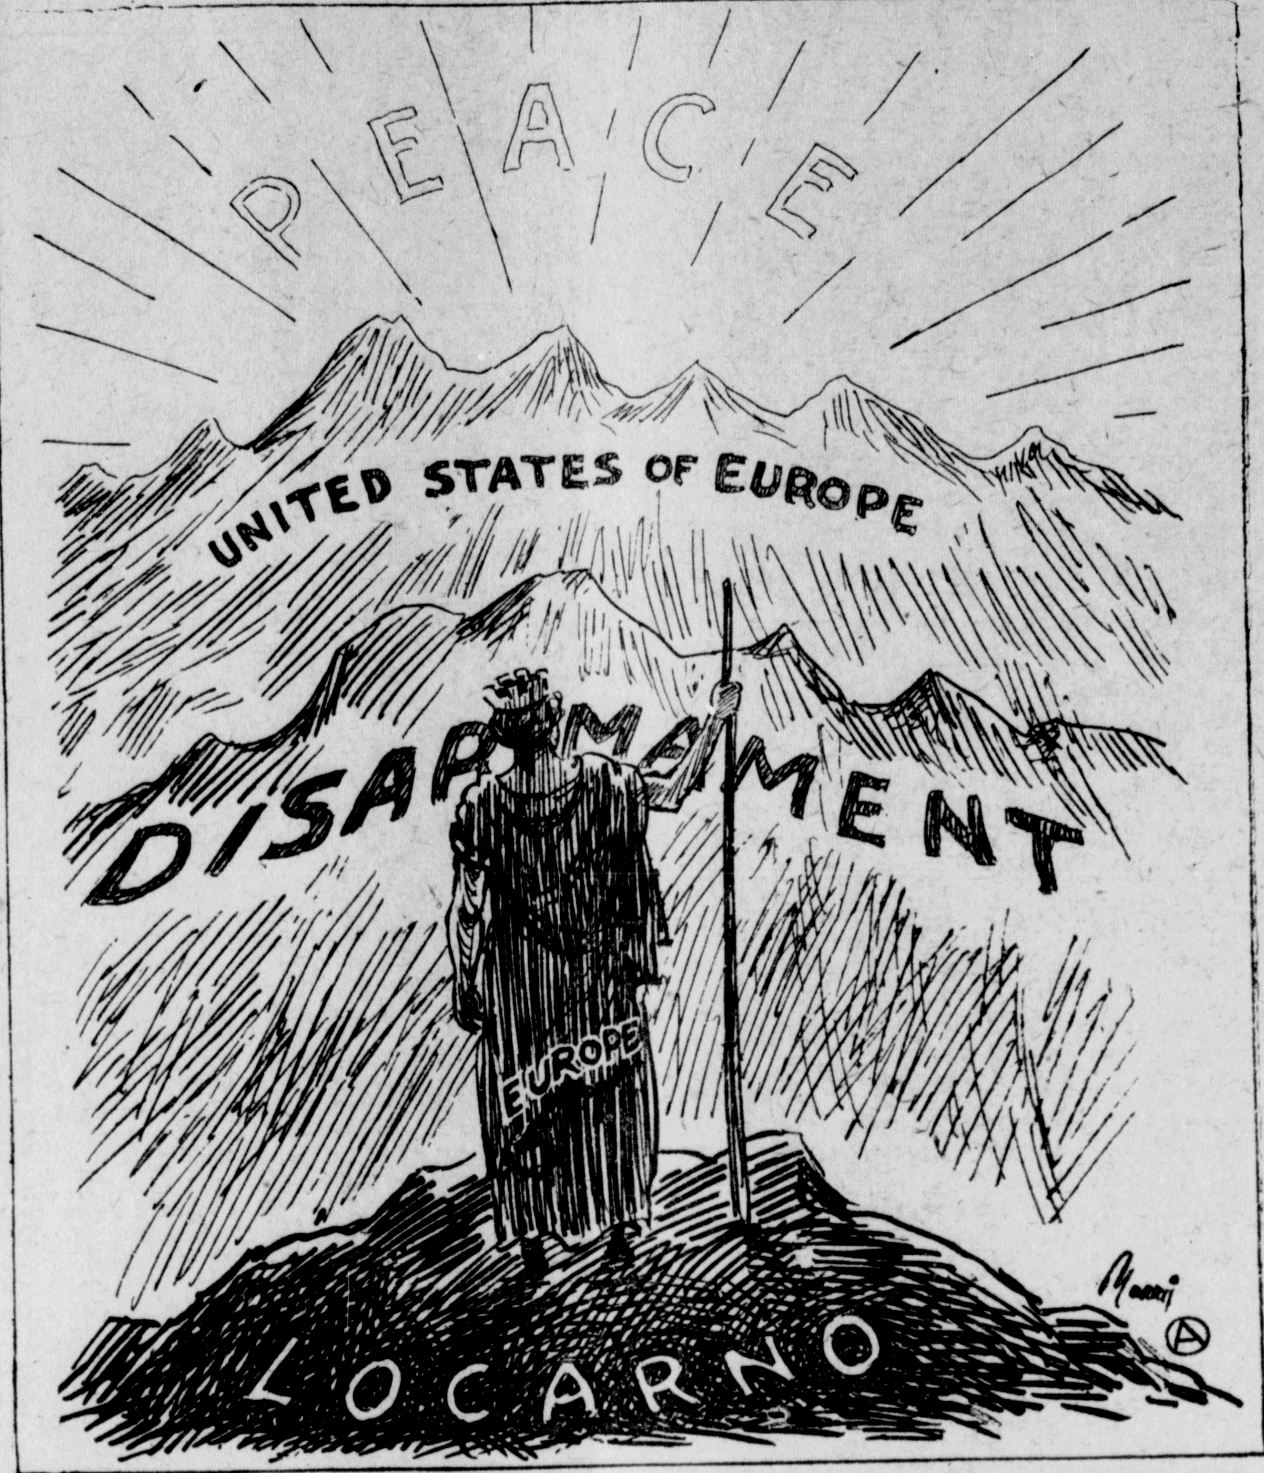

This is what a woman wants:

One who will not turn away
For another's painted cheeks,
But forever her will stay,
One whose temper or despair
Never to his duty blinds him,
But a man like this is rare
And no woman ever finds him

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICIALS RAISED

Gallipolis, Feb. 6.—Salaries of all city officials have been boosted by a recent order of the city commission here.
The salary of City Manager Arthur Miller was increased to $2,400 a year. City Auditor Philip King had his salary increased to $1,500 and Mayor Andrew Stormont's was fixed at $500. The mayor will also serve as police judge. City Solicitor Robert M. Switzer's salary was fixed at $500 a year.

Uncooked Chocolate Icing: Put in a bowl one and one-half cups of confectioner's sugar. Crush out the lumps, then add two tablespoons of dry cocoa powder, and wet with two tablespoons of cold water. Add butter size of a walnut melted, and flavor with one-half teaspoon of either vanilla or ground cinnamon. Spread this cold icing on while the cake is still very hot. This recipe makes just enough to frost the two square cakes. When cold cut the cakes into one-inch squares to serve on the tea cart.

EX-XENIAN DIES

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Bertha Uelass, Chicago, Ill., formerly of Xenia, which followed a fall received January 10. Mrs. Uelass' remains were taken to Mason City, for burial.
Mrs. Uelass' husband preceded her in death several years. She is survived by two sons, Elmer and Walter, both of Chicago and several brothers and sisters. She has a number of relatives in Xenia and Greene County.

BE A CONTRIBUTOR

Nature is a very wise teacher to follow.

I know of no insect or animal, flower or shrub, tree or stone, which does not contribute to the glory of human existence and the comfort and profit of mankind.

The ant and bee contribute a philosophy and system of action and government, as well as a mode of living, that is worth the study of the wisest man.

Seemingly nothing is lost in Nature. And those who work in Nature, who are below man, offer a marvelous amount of knowledge to him. Each one of these dumb movers on the face of the earth seems to contribute.

And the contribution of each seems to be in proportion to his ability.

After all, it's the spirit in which we do things and in which we think things that counts most.

The widow who gave her mere mite instantly attracted the attention of Jesus, who was always looking into the hearts and intentions of folks. What a giver she was to Him. She gave most of all—more than the richest, more than the most powerful, more than the most influential,—because "she gave all she had."

The simplest in heart, the poorest in pocket-book, the most unknown, may in fact be the biggest giver of all by giving the best of what he is and has.

In a community, the most valuable man or woman is that one who gives most in ideas, splendid words, kindnesses, far reaching acts—not necessarily in money. Money is only a commodity. And sometimes it is the cheapest of all—often worthless.

No matter who you are, where you live, no matter what you have, you can be a contributor. Why not?

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

SALLY LEE has gone to Atlantic City as public stenographer in a fashionable hotel after quarreling with

TOM PORTER, her husband of a year, who resents her working even though she does it in order that he may live more comfortably.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXXVII—BEGINNING ANEW

SALLY'S first impulse was to fling herself on the bed and cry, but determinedly she wiped the tears from her eyes and set about her packing. She wished that she did not have to stay there another night. The room which had looked so charming and comfortable to her now seemed hateful.

"Oh, you're a fraud," she told her reflection, and pained back at her from the mirror in the dresser where she was gathering up her things. "You silly little fool to think that anyone would try to make things so comfortable for you with no motive but to help you."

By morning she was a little more composed, but her voice shook as she told the hotel manager that she was giving up her job, that she was leaving the hotel as soon as she could find a room somewhere else. She didn't dare mention that she was going to become Granville's private secretary. What would happen to her if he had changed his mind, or if he had engaged someone else?

She couldn't telephone his room before noon, he always left orders not to be disturbed until then. Distractedly she tried to occupy her time until then, to quell the sinking sensation in her heart. "Babette—I'm leaving here," she started hesitatingly, feeling that the whole world must know her secret, must know that it was Stone's infatuation, not her own competence, that had kept her there.

"Leaving!" In Babette's tone was mingled surprise and admiration. "What for? Well, if you're not the luckiest girl."

"Lucky? Oh, you don't understand. But you've been so good to me, won't you help me now? I've got to find a place to live, just a room somewhere. I'll have to move today."

"That's easy. There are lots of places. I'll go with you to noon."

Sally packed up the few belongings in her desk, cleaned the typewriter keys, and finally found with a breath of relief that it was late enough to call Mr. Granville. When his cheery voice answered, "Fine. Of course, I want you to start work for me right away," she felt as though a great weight had been taken from her shoulders. The world began to look brighter again.

With Babette as her guide she went later up and down the side streets, trudging upstairs and looking at one dingy room after another. Each time rejecting what was offered because she felt she could not afford it. But finally she found a little room tucked under the eaves of an old frame building that she could have cheap. She shrugged her shoulders dejectedly as she looked at the shabby surroundings.

"Well, I'll earn this home anyway," she told Babette, who nodded gloomily. She had long since given up trying to understand Sally.

Walking back to the hotel, she turned impulsively to her. "Oh, Sally, what has happened? I don't understand."

"Nothing," Sally tossed her head gaily. "I'm just starting out on a new job. Please wish me success. I'm going to need it."

Babette was so surprised she could hardly speak, but a note of sadness in Sally's voice stopped her questioning. Sally was glad to hurry away from her and report to Mr. Granville.

"I've telegraphed Miss Barker to come down here for a few days. She can explain to you a lot of things about your work. I only hope that I can have you with me as long as I have had her. Now run along and come to me tomorrow about one o'clock."

Sally got her bags and boxes and trudged down the Boardwalk toward her new home. How different it was from her arrival there! There was little hope in her eyes now.

She trudged up the stairs and

"If Tom could only see me now!"

unpacked her few belongings, the discordant strains of a distant phonograph banging in her ears. There was something about the room that reminded her of the boarding house where she and Tom had gone to live when their hard times had first come upon them. She thought of the way he had helped her then—of the little shelf he had put up to hold her books, of the way he always took the heavy bags from her hands and lifted them up to the closet shelf for her.

"Oh, why weren't we happy then?" she mused as she went about the room trying to make it a little more livable. "We had everything, but we didn't realize it."

She tied a piece of cord from a shelf to a nail stuck in the window frame, washed out some stockings and hung them up to dry.

"Now stop feeling sorry for yourself," she told her reflection, striving to break the loneliness by pretending there was someone there to talk to. "A break in your bad luck is bound to come." But it was hard to cheer up. She couldn't help wondering moodily what Tom would think if he could only see her now.

Tomorrow—Triflers.

FAYETTE FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION TO SERVE BEAR MEAT

George Sunkel, who for a number of years has had charge of preparing the food served to great throngs of sportsmen from all over Ohio at the annual Fish and Game Association Banquet at Washington C. H., placed an order January 28 with a western firm for enough bear and deer meat to feed 2000 men at the banquet to be held Wednesday, February 17, at 6 p. m., at the Sunlight Creameries.

In the past, fish, turkey, capon, barbecued ox or chicken has been served. George is president of the association this year and is endeavoring to out do all his previous menus by building a dinner around deer and bear meat. An equal amount of each was ordered, so that every one will be served with both kinds. This will be the first opportunity many men in this part of Ohio have ever had to taste bear and deer meat and none can afford to miss it. This is the largest organization of this kind in the state and has attracted attention all over the state for the past few years.

Many Xenia people will attend this year as usual and they should watch the columns of this paper for an advertisement announcing the extra fine musical and vaudeville program which will appear in this paper next week.

Governor Donahey is to be the only speaker.

APPRAISAL PLANS TO BE WORKED OUT AT MONDAY MEETING

Plans are crystallizing for the county-wide re-appraisal of real estate this year, first to be held in the county for sixteen years, according to County Auditor R. O. Wead.

Actual field work is not expected to begin before March 1 but no definite date has been set.

The auditor has called a special meeting of all township school boards and township trustees in the county for Monday in the assembly room of the Court House, at which time plans for the field work will be discussed.

Appointments of assistants to Auditor Wead who will supervise the appraisal in the various districts will be made later upon recommendations offered at the meeting Monday. Township trustees will act in an advisory capacity.

Meeting of officials of villages (in the county and the city of Xenia will be called later, it is announced.

No appraisal of real estate has been held in the county since 1910. The re-appraisal this year is in conformation with a law enacted by the last general assembly requiring that property values in Ohio be adjusted every six years. No radical changes in values are anticipated in Greene County.

Home Chief

COL. T. F. ANDREWS
Colonel T. F. Andrews came here from Marion to become superintendent of the O. S. and S. O. Home last summer. He and Mrs. Andrews, who is chief matron of the institution, have endeared themselves to pupils and employes alike. Both are proud of the new school for which they are arranging dedication plans.

New Buildings On O.S. & S.O. Home Campus Fill Practical Wants

Dr. Jesse Swank, Dayton, superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Western Ohio Conference, will be a speaker at exercises February 22 when the new high school building at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home will be dedicated.

Other speakers will be added to the program according to Col. T. F. Andrews, superintendent, who expects to be able to announce complete program for the event soon. Dedication of the grand piano presented the institution by the Ohio Women's Relief Corps, and now situated in the auditorium of the new building, will be a feature of the exercises with Mrs. Greenfield, Cincinnati, presiding and national W. R. C. officers present. War veterans and patriotic societies will be invited to take part in the dedication, it is understood.

The school, newest addition to the group of structures at the state institution, has been occupied for class purposes since the resumption of classes following the Christmas holiday vacation. Students housed in the two older schools on the grounds were re-assigned so that the new building houses all high school pupils.

The building, erected at a cost of $125,000 by McCurran Bros., Xenia contractors, on plans drawn by the state architect, fills a three-fold need at the institution. It provides better and more comfortable housing for high school pupils, an auditorium large enough to accommodate all pupils and a swimming pool. The armory will continue to serve as a gymnasium and basketball court, no gymnasium being included in the new school.

The structure is erected on the main drive leading from the Home Ave., entrance, and just south of the chapel. It contains six class rooms, including a science laboratory and manual training department in the basement besides the auditorium and an office for W. S. Sackett, school superintendent.

The auditorium is equipped with a balcony, which with lower floor accommodations, will permit seating of 1,200 people. A stage fits the auditorium for presentation of school dramatics and entertainments frequently arranged for pupils. Moveable seats equip the auditorium so that the floor can be cleared for dances or other gatherings.

Youngsters are happy over the new swimming pool, which will fill a long-felt want among the state wards. It has not yet been placed in use. The Ex-Pupils' Association of the home made possible the Memorial Library, which is another new building on the campus and was placed in use last October.

It was erected with funds collected by former pupils at the Home in a campaign that lasted several years. It is now equipped with 3,500 volumes with Miss Margaret Clark, former Xenia public school teacher, as librarian.

TRADE IN XENIA

"Buy In Xenia Where You Will Get More For Your Dollar."

AN AD FOR XENIA

Coral Gables, Hollywood-by-the-Sea, and other elaborate dream cities of the new and inflated Florida are advertising their attractions in the national magazines.

These attractions include mostly the admirable winter climate, the amusement facilities and the beautiful municipalities which restricted building regulations have made.

Nothing is said of the sultry summer climate, the high cost of living, or what is more important—the chances of making a living.

Now then this is an advertisement for Xenia, which has infinitely more to offer the man who must toil for a living:

"Come to Xenia—the city of ideal living conditions.

"Xenia is the county-seat of Greene County, situated in the south-west part of Ohio, one of the leading states of the union, in the best agricultural district in the United States.

"Xenia is situated in the temperate zone, which means that it never suffers from weather extremes but offers a healthy climate.

"Xenia is a city of 10,000 inhabitants, well housed, has no tenement district, is operated under the efficient commission-manager form of government, has fifteen miles of paved streets, owns its own water plant and has one of the lowest per capita bonded debts in the state.

"It is a city in which the progress of industry has not crushed the beauty of nature. It has an ideally located city park, more churches in proportion to population than any other city in the state and operates efficient schools, handsomely housed.

"It is situated on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad and is connected with other cities by traction and bus lines so that the amusements and attractions of these cities are but a few minutes away. Best of roads contribute to this geographical advantage.

"Newcomers will find a friendly feeling of hospitality which is the meaning of the word Xenia. Thus this city offers itself for consideration of those who might be considering locating in Coral Gables or some other mushroom municipality of the everglades."

WOMEN! HAVE HAIR CURLED AT YOUR HOME

With the advance of popularity of bobbed hair, women have realized the importance of keeping their hair well-groomed, all the time! Answer to woman's problem of keeping her hair in good condition and presenting its best appearance on all occasions was found to be the permanent wave, within the past few years.

Because of the long hours necessitated to have a correct permanent wave, busy housewives and business women hesitated in going to beauty parlors for this work. Miss Zella Buck has solved the question for Xenia women and has offered her services in giving a perfect "wave" in the woman's home at any time.

Miss Buck's courtesy in accommodating busy women has been a large factor in the growth of her business during the past several weeks. She guarantees satisfaction and arrangement of the hair suited to the woman's style and taste.

These are some of the features of the Ajax and Nash automobiles for which Xenia Motor Sales Co., S. Detroit St., is agent.

The bodies swing extremely low to the road, are expressive of the highest art of body craftsmanship and finished in genuine duco. The Ajax Six presents an extraordinary group of major features to be found in no other car in Ajax price field which are sure to focus your immediate attention.

BUSY PEOPLE DRINK HURLEY'S PURE MILK

Ask the Business Woman what keeps her fit for her strenuous duties and perfect health and she will answer "I drink plenty of pure, fresh milk, daily." That is, the sensible woman in the business world will follow that rule and will be rewarded for the daily demands made on her strength.

Ask the Business Man what keeps up his "pep" and makes him physically able to manage his business and work with a keen mind and robust vitality and he will say, "Milk plays an important part in my diet."

Both learned this fact from childhood and in no matter what walk of life, the healthy man and woman have earned to regard pure milk as a factor in their food. Hurley's dairy is supplying Xenians with the freshest of milk to be obtained. Learn the secret of health by drinking Hurley's milk every day and you'll feel like a king.

REVIVALIST PLANS TO ADDRESS TRINITY CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Miss Elinor Millar spoke at First M. E. Church Friday night on the subject, "Jesus and the Samaritan Woman," before a large audience. She taught attendants a new campaign song and gave out testaments to young people, urging them to read a portion each day.

Miss Leona Keller sang a special selection. Miss Millar announced that next week, she will give four Bible readings in morning meetings. She will speak briefly before the Young Men's Fellowship Class Sunday morning and will then go to Trinity M. E. Church, where she will speak at the morning hour of worship. At 7 in the evening she will again speak at a combined service of Trinity and First Churches at First Church.

Dr. F. W. Stanton, pastor of First Church will speak at the O. S. and S. O. Home chapel services at 8:30 and preach in his own pulpit at 10:30 o'clock on the subject, "The Gospel of the Open Door."

Mrs. A. C. Turrell will have charge of a special service at 6 o'clock in Epworth League.

COLORED SINGERS HAVE BEEN PRAISED BY PAPER CRITICS

Knoxville College Quartet, which will give a concert at First U. P. Church, this city, next Monday evening, has received much praise from the newspapers from Massachusetts to Alabama where programs have been given.

Following an entertainment in Detroit, Mich., the Detroit Free Press said, "The colored quartet evoked many plaudits from the listeners-in. Telephone calls requesting continuance of the program started at the conclusion of the first number and continued until the announcers gave out information that the quartet could sing no longer."

On invitation of the First and Second U. P. Church of Xenia, they will appear Monday evening at the First Church. There will be no reserved seats and the program is announced for 7:30 o'clock. No admission will be charged but a silver offering is to be received, all of which will go to the quartet.

A crowded house is expected and any overflow will be cared for by opening the Sunday School auditorium.

EX-POSTMASTER OF XENIA IS BELIEVED OLDEST IN COUNTRY

Thomas G. Brown, 235 N. Sixth St., Coshocton, O., former Xenian, for many years a successful journalist in various parts of the United States, and an Ohio postmaster, lays claims to being the oldest retired first class postmaster in the country and one of the oldest newspaper men in the United States.

Mr. Brown now executive of the Coshocton Red Cross chapter, was born November 10, 1848 and was appointed postmaster in Xenia in 1877. He was re-appointed by President Arthur and served until 1885 in the Xenia postoffice under four presidents—Hayes, Garfield, Arthur and Cleveland. He was the youngest first class postmaster in Ohio at the time of his appointment.

Mr. Brown was for many years active in state and national politics in different capacities and was active in metropolitan newspaper work with the Chicago Times, Cincinnati Commercial, New York Tribune and New York Herald.

He later successively edited the Xenia Torchlight, the Republic of Springfield, O., and the Republican of Ironton.

Mr. Brown was also a charter member of the Associated Ohio Dailies in 1887, which held its annual meeting at Columbus this week.

SOCIETY IS SEEKING RECORDS OF SOLDIER DEAD OF REVOLUTION

Catherine Greene Chapter, D. A. R., has received an appeal from Mrs. Orville Dailey, state chairman of Revolutionary Graves, for records of soldiers buried in Ohio soil. The communication reads as follows:

"For five years the Daughters of the American Revolution of the State of Ohio have been collecting data on the burial places of all soldiers of the Revolution who have been buried in Ohio."

"In the early days families had their private grave yards on their own farms and unless a member of a family kept some data on deaths, all sources of information is lost for stones have crumbled away, and the plow-share has turned over the soil that was once the resting place of a soldier-pioneer."

"Realizing that such records are of great value to posterity, and because so many demands come from western states to the state of Ohio asking for data on ancestors who settled here after the war these patriotic women have searched old cemeteries, hunted out dust-covered records, secured information from descendants, and made many journeys to country burying grounds to read epitaphs, that no soldier might be omitted from the honor roll."

"Putting thought into action secured from Governor Donahay instructions to Adjutant General Henderson to plan for the printing of the list, with a part of this data, by the State of Ohio for their files in the Soldiers Record department, that Ohio might honor the soldiers of the Revolution who sleep on Ohio soil, and that such valuable information might be available for public use."

"Therefore the Ohio Daughters are making this appeal to the descendants of Revolutionary soldiers who are buried in counties of Ohio where there is no D. A. R. chapter, to be certain their ancestor's record is filed with Mrs. Orville Dailey, Albany, O., who has been state chairman of this work for the past three years, and has added 400 names to the record of 500 passed on to her by Mrs. Eugene Kennedy, Dayton, Ohio."

"Give all data and mail in by March first. When there is a D. A. R. chapter in the county send names to the Regent, who will verify, as the names might have been recorded. This is a duty."

There are forty-two Revolutionary graves in Greene County, according to members of the local D. A. R. chapter, all of which have been marked by that society. Last year, Mrs. Dailey sent to all Ohio chapters asking members of the Historical Sites and Revolutionary Graves Committee to prepare a map of early Greene County, recording places of note, early settlements, colleges of learning, Indian trails, monuments marking historical sites and other notes of interest.

Mrs. S. O. Hale was chairman of the committee which prepared the map and was assisted by Miss Emma C. King and Dr. W. A. Galloway.

WILBERFORCE

Mrs. A. Scurry of Xenia and Miss Ellen rances Talbert of Detroit, Mich., called on friends in the community Thursday. Mrs. Julia Gee-Hunnicutt, who was called to her former home by the death of Mr. H. C. Clay, returned to Cleveland Wednesday.

Miss Margaret Chenault, bookkeeper in the accounting department of the University was called to Richmond, Ky., by the continued illness of her mother. Miss Adlessie McNair of the Commercial Department will act as substitute during Miss Chenault's absence.

Miss Ruby Galloway of Atlanta, Ga., has completed her course in the Normal Teacher Course and accepted work in the public schools of Morgantown, W. Va. She was given a farewell reception by the young ladies of the "Hotsy-Totsies" Club before taking her departure.

Miss Wilma Russell, on account of health, has withdrawn from school and returned to Charleston, W. Va. She expects to return next fall and complete her work.

Mrs. S. J. Richards, former instructor in the Carpentry Department, and Mr. Bruce Johnson of Columbus, spent Sunday with friends.

President Gilbert H. Jones left for Marshall, Texas, Tuesday night to attend the Association of Negro Colleges. The purpose of this association is to improve the curriculum and standards of the various schools under the direct supervision of the negro churches in the United States and foreign fields.

Miss Orlean S. Rice of Birmingham, Ala., and Miss Natalie Irene Vallow of Wilmington, Delaware, having completed their work in the Teacher Elementary Course, left Monday for their respective homes.

Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, president, Columbus; Bishop J. H. Jones, Rev. J. S. Jackson, Columbus; Rev. E. P. Williams, Toledo; Rev. Charles Bundy, Cleveland; Hon. Harry C. Smith, Cleveland and Captain Walter Thomas, Mansfield, members of the trustee board of the C. N. I. Department at Wilberforce, attended the board meeting Tuesday to consider bids for the building of three cottages, sewer work and other improvements of the plant. The legislature last year gave a very liberal appropriation for the work. The bids were taken to Columbus by the assistant architect, Mr. Scott, to be reviewed before the work is given to the lowest bidder.

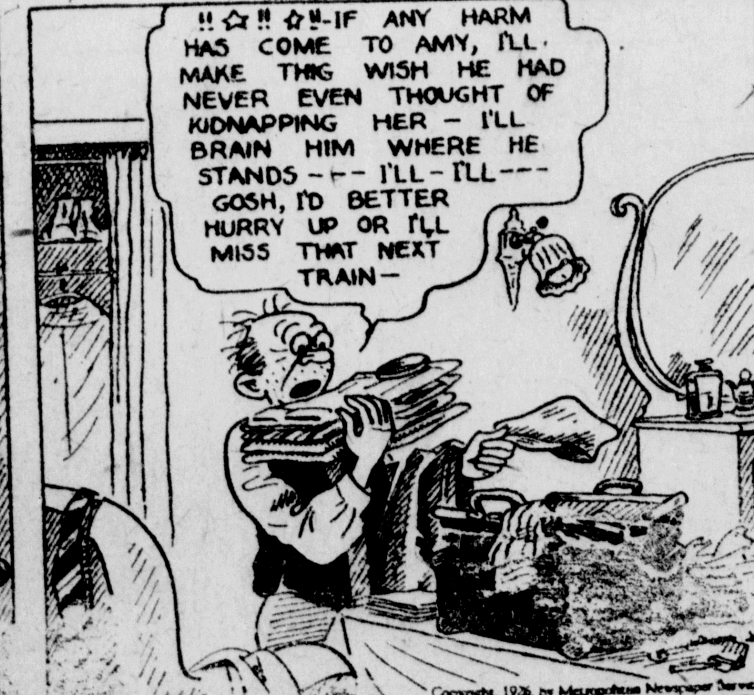

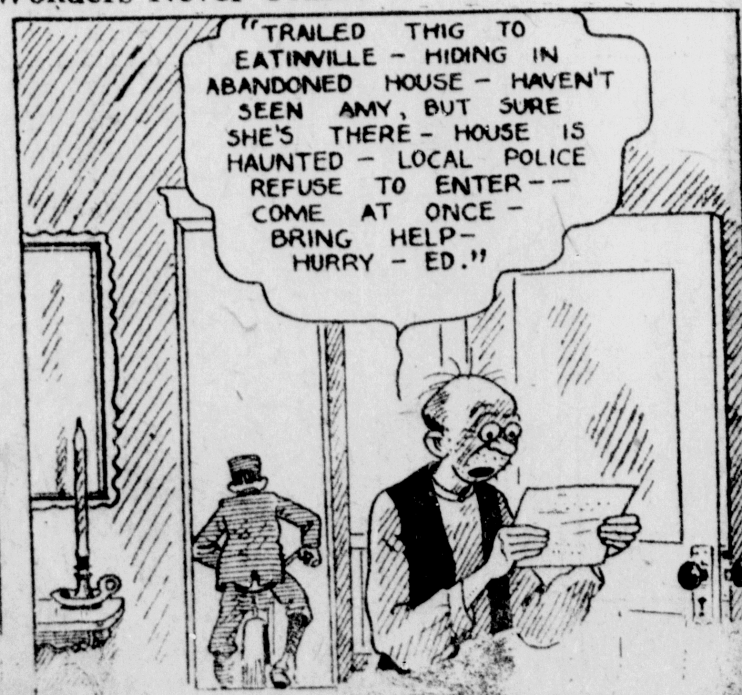

The University was honored last week with a visit by Captain C. J. Steubel of Dresden, Germany, who is making an extended survey of land conditions in the southern states for the German government. Captain Steubel received his law degree from the University of Leipzig and is a specialist in French and English literature. He visited the classes in German and French at the university.

MOTHER OF MOVIE STAR KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

VERA STEADMAN AND
AL CHRISTIE HURT;
CHAUFFEUR UNHURT

Mrs. H. Prevost Victim—
Party Was Motoring To
Palm Beach

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 6.—Mrs. H. Prevost, mother of Marie Prevost, motion picture star was killed and Al Christie, comedy producer and Vera Steadman, actress, were seriously injured in an auto accident twenty three miles east of Lordsburg, New Mexico, according to advices here today.

The machine in which the film party was riding overturned, it was said, while traveling about thirty miles an hour on a slippery road.

Christie and Miss Steadman were pinned under the wreckage and narrowly escaped death. The actress sustained bruises and lacerations about the face and lower limbs while Christie escaped with a lacerated arm and head.

The chauffeur of the machine, owned by Miss Steadman, escaped unhurt. The producer and Miss Steadman are in the hospital at Lordsburg. After the inquest the body of Mrs. Prevost was to be brought to Los Angeles. The film party left Hollywood last Wednesday headed for Palm Beach, Fla.

SOVIET COURIER IS KILLED BY BANDITS

Moscow, Feb. 6.—Attacked by masked bandits on a train near Riga, one Soviet diplomatic courier named Nette was killed and a second named Makhmatal was severely wounded, according to word here today.

Though Makhmatal's body was pierced with four bullets and he was in great agony, he clung to the mail pouches and their secret contents until Riga was reached when he turned them over to soviet colleagues.

The incident has caused deep indignation here and the soviet government had demanded of the Latvian government a prompt investigation. Details of the holdup are lacking, but it is assumed the bandits sought to get the documents Nette and Makhmatal were carrying.

GOVERNOR SUMMONS NILES OFFICIALS

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—Gov. Donahey today forwarded letters to Mayor Harvey Kistler and Safety Director O. O. Hewitt, of Niles, summoning the two officials to appear before him next week to answer affidavits filed against them by the Rev. Robert Ketchum and John Barrett, a former police lieutenant, both of Niles.

The governor refused to indicate whether Ketchum and Barrett, as rumored, had filed charges of "neglect of duty" against the two officials. Publication of the affidavits will depend upon the outcome of the conference, the governor said.

The affidavits also were reported to accuse the officials of "failure to enforce the prohibition laws."

SOLDIERS TO GUARD ALLEGED SLAYER

Georgetown, Del., Feb. 6.—Delaware today took a leaf from the book of Kentucky court caution by planning to mobilize three national guard batteries during the trial of a negro here, Monday.

The guardsmen will be armed with machine guns and rifles and will surround the courthouse where Harry Butler is to go on trial charged with criminal assault of 12-year-old Elnora Steinmetz, white, of Bridgeville.

Gov. Robinson issued the proclamation arranging for presence of the guardsmen.

ITALIAN TOWN IS SHAKEN BY QUAKE

Florence, Italy, Feb. 6.—Earth tremors early today terrified the town of Castelfiorentino, eighteen miles from here and sent inhabitants scurrying out of their houses to spend the remainder of the night out doors. No damage was done but the quake lasted several seconds.

(Castelfiorentino is a town of 5,000 inhabitants.)

ROOSEVELTS ON WAY HOME AFTER TAKING MANY RARE ANIMALS

Armor Plated Rhino Is In Collection Of Explorers

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Bringing with them rare trophies, including the hide of an "armor-plated" rhinoceros, Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his brother Kermit are on the seas, homeward bound from their ten months hunt in Central Asia, according to a cablegram received here today by James Simpson, millionaire department store man who financed the expedition.

The Roosevelts are on their way from Bombay to Marseilles, France, from where they will sail for the United States.

Aside from the "armor plated" rhino the Roosevelts bagged Royal Bengal tigers, Indian antelopes, leopards, hogs and axis deer and more than 200 birds and smaller animals. The trophies are in addition to the Ovis Poli (Marco Polo sheep)—primary object of the trip—which the Roosevelts secured in the Pamir mountains, up near the "roof of the world."

Eleven specimens of the rare Tien Shan Ibex, bagged in the Tien Shan mountains at the altitude of from 15,000 to 18,000 feet, are in the Roosevelt collection.

New York, Feb. 6.—Aboard the liner Olympic, only a few hours out of New York, pounding her way toward Europe today is a "Ben Smith" and a "Henrietta Fuller."

Report has it that "Smith" is James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank and that Miss "Fuller" is Anne U. Stillman, his wife, whose marital affairs have filled columns in the newspapers.

"Smith" and "Miss Fuller" occupy separate staterooms, but published reports declare they are off on a "trial reconciliation," that attorneys have been dismissed and that for the sake of their children further legal proceedings are to be dropped.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The new $352,000,000 tax reduction bill will be passed quietly or by main force in the senate before the end of next week, virtually without change from the form in which it was reported by the finance committee.

This seemed assured today when the Republican majority made known a decision to use the cloture rule next Thursday if the opposition forces delay in a final vote beyond that date. Night sessions will be held next week.

The little group protesting against certain features of the measure are staging an extensive battle over the majority's decision to prevent further income tax publicity. Chairman

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—A meeting of the board of trustees of Kent State Normal College, at Kent, February 15, was called today by Governor Donahey who announced that Joseph B. Hanan, Akron, who charged the board with neglect of duty, will be given an opportunity to testify.

Hanan Wednesday appealed to the governor to use his influence to defer the appointment of a successor to Dr. John E. McGilvrey, deposed president of Kent, declaring the board of trustees "did not have the interests of the school at heart."

Hanan, now president of the Akron board of education, is a Kent alumnus.

Eleven other members of the Kent Alumni Association signed the appeal. Gov. Donahey will attend the meeting and Hanan will be notified that he will be given an opportunity to present evidence to substantiate his allegations.

Kent, O., Feb. 6.—Unperturbed by charges that the board of trustees, had been guilty of various offenses in administration of Kent State Normal College, David Ladd Rockwell, president of the board today announced a successor to Dr. John E. McGilvrey, deposed president, may be selected late today or Monday.

Appointment of a new business manager for the college will be announced at the same time the new president is selected, Rockwell said.

The former business manager was ousted with Dr. McGilvrey. Both were accused of promoting an unauthorized "on to Europe tour" for Kent students.

Among those known to be under consideration for the presidency is H. D. Byrne, head of the department of history and science and Lester S. Ivins, head of the department of agriculture, both of Kent.

Youngstown, Feb. 6.—The charge by Joseph B. Hanan, president of the Akron board of education, that the board of trustees of Kent State Normal College "vacated office through neglect of duty" was denied by William Courson, superintendent of the East Youngstown schools and one of the Kent trustees named by Hanan.

FARMERS LEAVE FOR HOMES AS FARM WEEK PROGRAM CONCLUDED

Dean Alfred Vivian Praises
Progress Of Farm
Interests

Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—More than 4,000 Buckeye farmers and farm wives, who attended annual farm week at Ohio State University here, were returning to their homes today, fortified with reams of data on scientific farming, domestic science and live stock raising.

Farm week was brought to a formal close last night by Dean Alfred Vivian of the college of agriculture who praised the farmers for their progress and urged a spirit of idealism among them.

While farm week was becoming a thing of the past, the annual convention of the Buckeye Press Association also was adjourning. The editors were addressed by Charles L. Knight, publisher of the Akron Beacon Journal, who criticized "Government extravagance."

Knight declared the cost of the state government had increased 400 per cent in the past ten years and thirty per cent in the past two years. He advocated the removal of 3,000 employees from the state payrolls.

The Press Association adopted a resolution endorsing a bill now before congress which would prevent the government from printing return addresses on envelopes. This printing alone entails a loss of $6,000,000 annually to American printers, the resolution said.

Looking far younger than his years, Harris has a keen alert mind, sound business sense and possesses cool, calm and collected judgment.

RICH GIRL PROVES SHE CAN EARN WAY

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 6. (UP)—From society girl to shop girl on a bet—a rise to floor manager in two months—and head of one of the most important departments of the Halle Brothers company, at the end of three months, is the remarkable story of Miss Helen Sawyer, daughter of a retired steel magnate here.

Miss Sawyer asked for a job on a bet after being told she didn't have the nerve at a dance in November. In December she was floor manager and recently she was named head of the service department.

KING'S MEDALS ARE GIVEN OFFICERS OF LINER FOR HEROISM

Royal Welcome For Roosevelt Crews Is Staged
By British

Southampton, Feb. 6.—Medals from England's King were bestowed today upon the heroes of the U. S. Line steamer President Roosevelt for their rescue of the British crew of the tramp freighter Antiope in mid-ocean.

The Roosevelt put into Southampton enroute to America, amid the din of sirens from the liners Majestic and Aquitania and the plaudits of Englishmen and women, stirred by the courage of Skipper Captain Fried and his life savers.

At the masthead of the British liners waved the Stars and Stripes. Their crews were lined along the rail and shouted as Fried and First Officer Robert Miller, left the bridge and went down the gang plank to be greeted by the welcoming committee.

Over the entrance to the pier was a huge placard with the inscription "Bravo" and as Fried and his men appeared, the admirers ashore took up that cry "Bravo, Bravo."

After Captain Fried and Miller had welcomed the official group the presentations of the King's medals were made in the dining room of the Roosevelt.

With the crew gathered about, Philip Runciman, introduced President Cunliffe-Lister of the board of trade. Presentations of the medals from the King were made by Cunliffe-Lister. A hush fell over the throng as he rose to speak.

"I am commanded by the King" he said, "to express to you, Captain Fried, his Majesty's regret that your short stay at Southampton did not admit of his seeing you in London and thanking you and your crew for their gallant services."

"The rescue," he added, "exceeds the imagination and earns the gratitude of the whole British race."

Fried, deeply moved, responded, thanking Britain for its wonderful hospitality and expressing his appreciation of the honors done him and his men by the King, the government and by Britons, throughout the empire.

Then it was Miller's turn. He spoke modestly and thankfully of the honors due the heroes.

Then as the men proudly displayed their medals the ship's orchestra burst into "God Save the King," and "The Star Spangled Banner" while Britisher and Yankee sang the refrains.

DIogenes SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THIS

Minerva, O., Feb. 6.—State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, who is ticket agent for a Rochester Railroad, has started a "conscience" fund.

Emmons has received the following letter:

"Enclosed find $1. Some time ago I bought a ticket which the conductor did not collect. I used it again and rode on same from your station."

"I do not feel I can be a Christian and not make it right so please turn this into the company and may God bless you."

BLASPHEMY LAW ENACTED BY EARLY PURITANS USED IN MODERN TRIAL

Boston, Mass., Feb. 6.—If Luther Burbank or Clarence Darrow should voice their disbelief in God in Massachusetts they would be prosecuted under the old blasphemy law enacted seventy-seven years after the Mayflower "docked," Attorney General Jay R. Benton said today.

"Fact that the blasphemy law, enacted in 1697, is still on the statute books as a survival of the Puritan Blue Laws, would make it necessary for us to take action against Darrow, Burbank or other disbelievers, should they air their views on religion in Massachusetts," Benton said.

The attorney general made this statement in discussing the forthcoming trial in Brooklyn of Anthony Blimba, editor of the Communist newspaper "Freedom" of Brooklyn, N. Y. Blimba will go on trial Wednesday charged with violation of the blas-

RUMORED STILLMAN SAILS WITH WIFE AS TROUBLES SETTLED

Reported Trip Would Halt
Court Action To Get
Divorce

(By United Press)

New York, Feb. 6.—"I know nothing about it and have nothing to say," was the only comment former Gov. Nathan L. Miller attorney for James I. Stillman would make today upon a published report that Stillman and his wife had sailed together on the liner Olympic and that their marital difficulties were now to be marked by reconciliation instead of further proceedings.

Such a development would bring to a close a series of court hearings that has marked one of the most sensational divorce hearings in the history of New York. Through the various proceedings Stillman charged that Fred Beaveauis, French Canadian Indian was the father of baby Guy Stillman. The legitimacy of the child, however, was upheld. Mrs. Stillman named beautiful Flo Leeds, former chorus girl in her suit.

Stillman admitted the paternity of Jay Leeds, a son born to the former chorus girl.

ANOTHER UNIVERSE EXISTS SAYS SCIENCE

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Proof that another universe with stars and nebulae in the heavens like ours exists out in space in-conceivably distant from the earth has been presented by Dr. Edwin P. Hubble in the Astro-Physical Journal, publication of the University of Chicago. It was announced today.

Dr. Hubble made his observation at Mount Wilson observatory.

Measuring the distance from the earth to the exterior galaxy, which is similar in many ways to our own, although entirely out of the earth galactic system, Dr. Hubble found that it is about 700,000 light years away or approximately 66,509,872,000,000 miles. According to his compilation it is 400,000 light years across. Its general appearance is like that of the Magellanic clouds, the mass of nebulae lighting the way in the skies of the southern hemisphere.

The galaxy was first seen in 1884.

INTERNAL REVENUE COLLECTORS NAMED IN WET CONSPIRACY

Say Official Received
Weekly Payments From
Superior Co.

(By United Press)

Cleveland, O., Feb. 6.—With the arrest of a Cleveland lawyer expected momentarily, two deputy revenue collectors were arrested here today on charges of conspiracy in connection with operations of the Superior Industrial Alcohol Company.

The deputies were Charles E. Cummings and Albert Oertel, the latter chief of the alcohol division of the internal revenue department.

Cummings was suspended several months ago, prior to which he was engaged in checking justice court liquor cases.

Oertel, according to government investigators received $200 a week from the Superior Company for supplying advance information on government raids and hearings. His arrest was brought about by Harry Grossberg, a former bootlegger, who declared Oertel introduced him to Armand Gardos, a former client.

Grossberg testified in the recent Hayner liquor conspiracy some time ago.

Oertel and Cummings were grilled late yesterday by George A. Goldman of the federal treasury department and his aides. Subsequently warrants were sworn out charging the agents were co-conspirators with Walter J. Gillen, president of the Superior Company and nineteen others accused of plotting to flood the country between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic ocean with Alcohol.

Records of Oertel's department have been completely checked and evidence has been obtained, substantiating the charge that he received $200 a week from the Superior Company, Goldman asserted.

Other employees of the department are under investigation, according to Goldman.

A grand jury investigation of operations of the Superior Company is scheduled to get under way next week. More than one hundred witnesses have been subpoenaed.

The Hayner whiskey case which implicated Oertel, resulted in the conviction of J. E. Russell, then Ohio Federal prohibition director, his chief clerk, M. B. Cleveland and Warren Barnett, a Columbus attorney.

SAY PRINCE WILL RESUME HIS RIGHTS

Vienna, Feb. 6.—Reports, unconfirmed from any source were circulated here today that Crown Prince Carol of Rumania had withdrawn his previous renunciation of throne rights.

LARGE AUDIENCE GREETED SPRING HILL P. T. A. PLAYS

Spring Hill Parent-Teacher Association realized more than $100 from the program presented at Jean B. Elwell Auditorium, Central High School, Friday night.

A full house greeted the performance which was well staged and executed. Six characters took part in the first playlet, "A Little Mistake," a more elaborate sketch, "The Mock Trial" taking place during the second part of the performance. Nineteen characters took part in this skit. Many amusing situations were presented in the farce which were highly appreciated by the audience.

Little Miss Glenna Bratton, five years old, entertained the audience with an expert rendition of "The Charleston." Mrs. J. C. Denham gave a reading, "I and George," which was well received.

Committee responsible for the splendid program was composed of Mrs. Harry Jay, general chairman; Mrs. Daniel Jordan, Mrs. Ralph Compton, Mrs. Elmer Yeakley and Mrs. Charles McDaniel.

Money realized from the show will be used to purchase furniture for Spring Hill School auditorium.

NEW YORK SPORTING FRATERNITY INTERESTED IN GAMBLING CASES

James M. Allison, formerly of Urbana, O., who conducts a syndicated column called "New York Day by Day," writes that the New York City sporting fraternity is awaiting with considerable interest the decision of the Ohio Supreme Court in six cases involving construction of the anti-gambling law in Ohio, appealed by Attorney C. L. Darlington, Xenia, attacking convictions of clients, several months ago in Probate Court for selling racing pools and recording wagers on horse races.

Sporting men anticipate the establishment of a legal precedent of importance, Mr. Allison declares. His comment follows:

"New York sporting men are awaiting with a good deal of interest, the decision of the Ohio Supreme Court in certain cases involving wagers on race horses. They anticipate the establishment of a legal precedent of considerable importance—to them, at least.

"The matter was taken before the Supreme Court by Charles L. Darlington, attorney for six persons convicted in the Probate Court of Greene County, of making wagers on horse races.

"In the trial, the state proved its case by introducing copies of daily newspapers containing race results. The court accepted the newspaper reports as establishing the fact that certain races had occurred.

"Attorney Darlington appealed the cases on the ground that the newspaper evidence was essentially hearsay evidence, and that for competent proof the state must present witnesses to testify that they had actually seen the race on which a wager was made.

"Sporting men here are advised by their attorneys that the point raised by Mr. Darlington is entirely sound in law. They believe that the decision of the Supreme Court may be such that witnesses must be brought from race tracks, wherever they may be located, in order to permit of a conviction where making wagers is charged."

LECTURER WILL BE HEARD ON LYCEUM COURSE AT SCHOOL

An address by Sam Grathwell, noted lecturer and known as Lyceum's "Pep-timist," will feature the fourth number of the Central High School Lyceum Course at the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium, Thursday night, February 11.

Mr. Grathwell once sold newspapers in Cincinnati to help support the family and later spent many years employed as a factory hand, barrel painter, ditch digger, saloon porter, waiter, elevator boy and salesman.

He studied at night school at the age of ten and working his own way, entered Berea College, Berea, Ky., at twenty-one. Nine years later he received his A. B. degree at Leland Stanford University and while in his senior year, won highest forensic honors.

Subjects of his lectures are: "Getting By Your Hoodoo," "Wake Up and Get Up," "Thinkers and Thinkers," and other subjects.

JOIE RAY HAS HAD ENOUGH PUNCHING BAGS SAYS EXPERT

BY JOHN SORDS

Who is the best runner in the world? Ask Joie Ray, America's premier middle distance runner, and he will tell you that he and no one else is the greatest.

Ray wants to return to the amateur ranks and has petitioned the Central A. A. U. to reinstate him. He recently turned professional to give bag punching exhibitions in a Chicago department store.

Joie has complete confidence in his ability as a runner. He is of the opinion that a man can do anything if he only thinks so. He thinks so. He thinks that the power and speed of his legs will put him ahead of any man he races, and most generally it is true.

On the ship carrying the American Olympic athletes to Antwerp in 1920, Ray passed out postcards on which were written, "From Joie Ray, the world's greatest runner."

One might gather from this that Ray is objectionable because of his "chesty" attitude. It isn't true. On the contrary he is very well liked because of his confidence in himself.

Joie runs with the perfect rhythm of a motor, his legs as pistons, keeping uniform time. He needs no one to set a pace. Usually he takes the lead as soon as possible, and with his keen judgment of speed will make the mile in whatever speed he thinks is necessary to win. If he wants to make it in 4:30 he regulates his speed accordingly and usually finishes within a second of the allotted time.

No other runner in the history of sport has run a mile in 4:20 or better as many times as Ray. Since winning the mile championship for the first time in 1915, he established the record of making the mile in better than 4:21 forty-seven times.

Recently he has received so many invitations to run in various parts of the country that he wants to return to the amateur ranks. He has also been invited to compete in professional races, but prefers the amateurs. If the A. A. U. officials continue to turn a deaf ear to his wishes, Ray can expose the methods in vogue among "amateur" runners of this as well as foreign countries.

It might be well for the officials to see that Ray is reinstated, if for no other reason than to block a serious blow at amateur track events in the United States.

MAN WITH BROKEN BACK ABLE TO WALK

Although he received a broken back when he fell from a pole while at work for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., on the Jamestown Pike, two months ago, Lloyd Terviss, Springfield, is on the road to recovery and is able to walk.

His back is encased in a plaster cast and after careful attention from attendants at McClellan Hospital, where he has been since the accident, his recovery is assured. He was able to leave his bed a few days ago and is gradually learning to walk again.

Mrs. Terviss, a bride of a few weeks when the accident occurred, has been with her husband during his recuperation.

HORSEPLAY IN THE CLASSROOM.

IN attempting to shame girl students who make use of rouge and cosmetics too openly by applying it no matter where they may be, an instructor in the University of California told his class the young men would be warranted in coming into the school room to shave, considering the example set by the young women. He said he would be tempted to give high marks to any brave enough to do it. Three students took him at his word and shaved themselves in class the following day. He assured them they would be the recipients of high marks.

We know the college man gets farthest in the end, but it is just such things as this that make it difficult for him to get a start. Earnest college students, of course, are in the majority in any institution of learning but the so-called pranks of other students give the public the impression that every college graduate, fresh from school, is just another of those rah-rah persons. Many men of good practical common sense actually hold a college graduate in contempt and feel that their education is a detriment rather than an asset. It is not real education they feel dubious about, of course, but the kind of education they think has been acquired.

Unfortunately, it is not the solid, but the frivolous features of college life, that get the most publicity and it is from that the less thoughtful get their impressions. Usually there things have been manifested in student pranks and in the nature of college publications, some of which have been so raw that they have been barred from the mails. Now, it appears that the faculty is becoming contaminated with the horseplay spirit, too.

MUCH DISCUSSED SUBJECT.

BESIDES being the "root of all evil," money seems to be the subject about which more has been written than any other. Every philosopher since the age of barter has speculated on the institution of money, and it is apparent the philosophers of the future will find the subject no less diverting, and there are good reasons to believe as long as there are philosophers they will find new phases of the question on which to philosophize.

True to the typically American instinct to couple money with work, John D. Rockefeller says of money: "I determined that, in addition to working for money, I would make money work for me."

In his monumental work, "The Principles of Political Economy," John Stuart Mill came to the conclusion that "money is a commodity and its value is determined, like other commodities, temporarily by demand and supply, permanently and on the average by cost of production."

"Money amassed either serves or rules us," sagely wrote Horace, and just as wisely Bacon wrote, "Money is like manure; of little use unless it be spread."

Dr. Johnson, who made much money but was not prevented by that fact from being often in the want of it, learned from life that "money, in whatever hands, will confer power."

"Money is the root of all evil" is a household adage and suggests this quotation from Fielding: "Money is the fruit of evil as often as the root of it."

George Bernard Shaw has acquired a goodly share of the world's material wealth by creating from his cold and cynical intellect such typically Shawian bits as "Any fool can save money; it takes a wise man to spend it." From the works of his prototype, Samuel Butler, is called this gem of Solomonic wisdom: "Money is like a reputation for ability—more easily made than kept."

As for the "unthinking" public, it also finds in money a subject for conversation, some finding the lack of it the cause of much sorrow and suffering.

COURTESY A TRAFFIC ART.

AS pointed out in the latest survey of the American Automobile association of motor problems, the elimination of much of the danger in motor traffic depends very much upon the courtesy of the road, the unwritten law of the road, the observance of those rules which exist by common consent and expediency, which have not been reduced to writing.

The survey reveals that the reaction of the average motorist toward rule, written and unwritten, is to observe those dictated by the law and enforced by the police, but to disregard the unwritten maxims of safety.

We have reached a point where the statutes are overburdened with commands and prohibitions. The real need is for the strict observance of the dictates of conscience and good sense, for that courtesy, that regard for the rights, privileges, comfort and safety of others which would make the writing of further traffic laws unnecessary.

WHAT A WOMAN SEEKS

This is what a woman seeks:
One with laughter in his eyes,
Soft and gentle when he speaks,
Strong and brave and very wise;
One whose company is fair,
Free from petulance and whining;
One who with a happy air
Gossips with her when he's dining.

This is what a woman seeks:
One whose love for her will last
Longer than a few glad weeks,
And the first sharp, stinging blast,
One who'll never do her wrong.
Never shame the name she's taken,
One who, though the years be long,
Still will keep her faith unshaken.

This is what a woman seeks:

One who will not turn away
For another's painted cheeks,
But forever hers will stay,
One whose temper or despair
Never to his duty blinds him,
But a man like this is rare
And no woman ever finds him.

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICIALS RAISED

Gallipolis, Feb. 6.—Salaries of all city officials have been boosted by a recent order of the city commission here.

The salary of City Manager Arthur Miller was increased to $2,400 a year. City Auditor Philip King had his salary increased to $1,500 and Mayor Andrew Stormont's was fixed at $500.

The mayor will also serve as police judge. City Solicitor Robert M. Swift's salary was fixed at $500 a year.

"What kind of little cake would you serve on the tea cart with afternoon tea?" is a question which comes in to me frequently. In my own home, I usually keep cookies on hand for convenience when some friend drops in unexpectedly in the afternoon, and I wish to make her a cup of orange-peko. But when I have invited a friend to lunch, perhaps, and she stays on through the afternoon "visiting" with me cozily before my open fire, then I invariably have the following little Chocolate Squares on hand, to serve with a cup of tea at four o'clock, before my friend goes.

Chocolate Squares: Keep small amounts of unneeded milk in a pitcher for several days, in a warm place, so it will sour thickly. For this recipe you will need two cups of the sour milk. To it add two level teaspoons of baking soda. Now begin to mix the cake by putting two squares of shaved, unsweetened chocolate into a cup and setting the cup in a moderate oven for a moment, to melt the chocolate. When melted, turn it into the mixing bowl and add two beaten egg-yolks previously mixed with two cups of granulated sugar. Now stir the sour milk (which has stood several minutes with the soda added to it) and beat well. Add three cups of ordinary bread flour, one-third teaspoon of salt and two teaspoons of vanilla extract, and beat vigorously again. The more you beat it, the better the results. (The two egg-whites are not used in this cake. I always keep mine for pies meringues)

Butter two square pans. My two measure eight by eight inches square across the bottom. They have slightly flaring sides which are one and one-third inches high. I fill these pans with cake batter to the depth of three-quarters of an inch. When baked—30 minutes in a good oven—the cake will

BE A CONTRIBUTOR

Nature is a very wise teacher to follow.

I know of no insect or animal, flower or shrub, tree or stone, which does not contribute to the glory of human existence and the comfort and profit of mankind.

The ant and bee contribute a philosophy and system of action and government, as well as a mode of living, that is worth the study of the wisest man.

Seemingly nothing is lost in Nature. And those who work in Nature, who are below man, offer a marvelous amount of knowledge to him. Each one of these dumb movers on the face of the earth seems to contribute.

And the contribution of each seems to be in proportion to his ability.

After all, it's the spirit in which we do things and in which we think things that counts most.

The widow who gave her mere mite instantly attracted the attention of Jesus, who was always looking into the hearts and intentions of folks. What a giver she was to Him. She gave most of all—more than the richest, more than the most powerful, more than the most influential,—because "she gave all she had."

The simplest in heart, the poorest in pocket-book, the most unknown, may in fact be the biggest giver of all by giving the best of what he is and has.

In a community, the most valuable man or woman is that one who gives most in ideas, splendid words, kindnesses, far reaching acts—not necessarily in money. Money is only a commodity. And sometimes it is the cheapest of all—often worthless.

No matter who you are, where you live, no matter what you have, you can be a contributor. Why not?

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

SALLY LEE has gone to Atlantic City as public stenographer in a fashionable hotel after quarreling with

TOM PORTER, her husband of a year, who resents her working even though she does it in order that he may live more comfortably.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXXVII—BEGINNING ANEW

SALLY'S first impulse was to fling herself on the bed and cry, but determinedly she wiped the tears from her eyes and set her shoulders dejectedly as she looked at the shabby surroundings. "Well, I'll earn this home anyway," she told Babette, who nodded glumly. She had long since given up trying to understand Sally.

Walking back to the hotel, she turned impulsively to her. "Oh, Sally, what has happened? I don't understand."

"Nothing," Sally tossed her head gaily. "I'm just starting out on a new job. Please wish me success. I'm going to need it."

Babette was so surprised she could hardly speak, but a note of sadness in Sally's voice stopped her questioning. Sally was glad to hurry away from her and report to Mr. Granville.

"I've telegraphed Miss Barker to come down here for a few days. She can explain to you a lot of things about your work. I only hope that I can have you with me as long as I have had her. Now run along and come to me tomorrow about one o'clock."

Sally got her bags and boxes and trudged down the Boardwalk toward her new home. How different it was from her arrival there! There was little hope in her eyes now.

She trudged up the stairs and unpacked her few belongings, the discordant strains of a distant phonograph banging in her ears. There was something about the room that reminded her of the boarding house where she and Tom had gone to live when their hard times had first come upon them.

She thought of the way he had helped her then—of the little shell he had put up to hold her boots, of the way he always took the heavy bags from her hands and lifted them up to the closet shelf for her.

"Oh, why weren't we happy then?" she mused as she went about the room trying to make it a little more livable. "We had everything, but we didn't realize it."

She tied a piece of cord from a shelf to a nail stuck in the window frame, washed out some stockings and hung them up to dry.

"Now stop feeling sorry for yourself," she told her reflection, striving to break the loneliness by pretending there was someone there to talk to. "A break in your bad luck is bound to come." But it was hard to cheer up. She couldn't help wondering moodily what Tom would think if he could only see her now.

FAYETTE FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION TO SERVE BEAR MEAT

George Sunkel, who for a number of years has had charge of preparing the food served to great throngs of sportsmen from all over Ohio at the annual Fish and Game Association Banquet at Washington C. H., placed an order January 28 with a western firm for enough bear and deer meat to feed 2000 men at the banquet to be held Wednesday, February 17, at 6 p. m., at the Sunlight Creameries.

In the past, fish, turkey, capon, barbecued ox or chicken has been served. George is president of the association this year and is endeavoring to out do all his previous menus by building a dinner around deer and bear meat. An equal amount of each was ordered, so that every one will be served with both kinds. This will be the first opportunity many men in this part of Ohio have ever had to taste bear and deer meat and none can afford to miss it. This is the largest organization of this kind in the state and has attracted attention all over the state for the past few years.

Many Xenia people will attend this year as usual and they should watch the columns of this paper for an advertisement announcing the extra fine musical and vaudeville program which will appear in this paper next week. Governor Donahey is to be the only speaker.

APPRAISAL PLANS TO BE WORKED OUT AT MONDAY MEETING

Plans are crystallizing for the county-wide re-appraisal of real estate this year, first to be held in the county for sixteen years, according to County Auditor R. O. Wead.

Actual field work is not expected to begin before March 1 but no definite date has been set.

The auditor has called a special meeting of all township school boards and township trustees in the county for Monday in the assembly room of the Court House, at which time plans for the field work will be discussed.

Appointments of assistants to Auditor Wead who will supervise the appraisal in the various districts will be made later upon recommendations offered at the meeting Monday. Township trustees will act in an advisory capacity.

Meeting of officials of villages in the county and the city of Xenia will be called later, it is announced.

No appraisal of real estate has been held in the county since 1910. The reappraisal this year is in conformation with a law enacted by the last general assembly requiring that property values in Ohio be adjusted every six years. No radical changes in values are anticipated in Greene County.

Home Chief

COL. T. F. ANDREWS

Colonel T. F. Andrews came here from Marion to become superintendent of the O. S. and S. O. Home last summer. He and Mrs. Andrews, who is chief matron of the institution, have endeared themselves to pupils and employees alike. Both are proud of the new school for which they are arranging dedication plans.

New Buildings On O.S. & S.O. Home Campus Fill Practical Wants

NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING
O.S. & S.O. HOME
XENIA, OHIO

AUDITORIUM
MEMORIAL LIBRARY BLDG.

NEW SWIMMING POOL

Dr. Jesse Swank, Dayton, superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Western Ohio Conference, will be a speaker at exercises February 22 when the new high school building at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home will be dedicated.

Other speakers will be added to the program according to Col. T. F. Andrews, superintendent, who expects to be able to announce complete program for the event soon. Dedication of the grand piano presented the institution by the Ohio Women's Relief Corps, and now situated in the auditorium of the new building, will be a feature of the exercises with Mrs. Greenfield, Cincinnati, presiding and national W. R. C. officers present. War veterans and patriotic societies will be invited to take part in the dedication, it is understood.

The school, newest addition to the group of structures at the state institution, has been occupied for class purposes since the resumption of classes following the Christmas holiday vacation. Students housed in the two older schools on the grounds were re-assigned so that the new building houses all high school pupils.

The building, erected at a cost of $125,000 by McCurran Bros., Xenia contractors, on plans drawn by the state architect, fills a three-fold need at the institution. It provides better and more comfortable housing for high school pupils, an auditorium large enough to accommodate all pupils and a swimming pool. The armory will continue to serve as a gymnasium and basketball court, no gymnasium being included in the new school.

The structure is erected on the main drive leading from the Home Ave., entrance, and just south of the chapel. It contains six class rooms, including a science laboratory and manual training department in the basement besides the auditorium and an office for W. S. Sackett, school superintendent.

The auditorium is equipped with a balcony, which with lower floor accommodations, will permit seating of 1,200 people. A stage fits the auditorium for presentation of school dramatics and entertainments frequently arranged for pupils. Moveable seats equip the auditorium so that the floor can be cleared for dances or other gatherings.

Youngsters are happy over the new swimming pool, which will fill a long-felt want among the state wards. It has not yet been placed in use. The Ex-Pupils' Association of the home made possible the Memorial Library, which is another new building on the campus and was placed in use last October.

It was erected with funds collected by former pupils at the Home in a campaign that lasted several years. It is now equipped with 3,500 volumes with Miss Margaret Clark, former Xenia public school teacher, as librarian.

AN AD FOR XENIA

Coral Gables, Hollywood-by-the-Sea, and other elaborate dream cities of the new and inflated Florida are advertising their attractions in the national magazines.

These attractions include mostly the admirable winter climate, the amusement facilities and the beautiful municipalities which restricted building regulations have made.

Nothing is said of the sultry summer climate, the high cost of living, or what is more important—the chances of making a living.

Now then this is an advertisement for Xenia, which has infinitely more to offer the man who must toil for a living:

"Come to Xenia—the city of ideal living conditions.

"Xenia is the county-seat of Greene County, situated in the south-west part of Ohio, one of the leading states of the union, in the best agricultural district in the United States.

"Xenia is situated in the temperate zone, which means that it never suffers from weather extremes but offers a healthy climate.

"Xenia is a city of 10,000 inhabitants, well housed, has no tenement district, is operated under the efficient commission-manager form of government, has fifteen miles of paved streets, owns its own water plant and has one of the lowest per capita bonded debts in the state.

"It is a city in which the progress of industry has not crushed the beauty of nature. It has an ideally located city park, more churches in proportion to population than any other city in the state and operates efficient schools, handsomely housed.

"It is situated on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad and is connected with other cities by traction and bus lines so that the amusements and attractions of these cities are but a few minutes away. Best of roads contribute to this geographical advantage.

"Newcomers will find a friendly feeling of hospitality which is the meaning of the word Xenia. Thus this city offers itself for consideration of those who might be considering locating in Coral Gables or some other mushroom municipality of the everglades."

WOMEN! HAVE HAIR CURLED AT YOUR HOME

With the advance of popularity of bobbed hair, women have realized the importance of keeping their hair well-groomed, all the time! Answer to woman's problem of keeping her hair in good condition and presenting its best appearance on all occasions was found to be the permanent wave, within the past few years.

Because of the long hours necessitated to have a correct permanent wave, busy housewives and business women hesitated in going to beauty parlors for this work. Miss Zella Buck has solved the question for Xenia women and has offered her services in giving a perfect "wave" in the woman's home at any time.

Miss Buck's courtesy in accommodating busy women has been a large factor in the growth of her business during the past several weeks. She guarantees satisfaction and arrangement of the hair suited to the woman's style and taste.

BEAUTY EMBODIED IN AJAX-NASH MODELS

Four-wheel brakes of special design, exclusive to Ajax and Nash; a six-cylinder motor that develops performance of unusual liveliness and superior smoothness throughout its entire range of speed and power; a seven-bearing crank shaft; force-feed lubrication to all main bearings, connecting rod bearings and camshaft bearings, also full balloon tires and five disc wheels as standard equipment.

These are some of the features of the Ajax and Nash automobiles for which Xenia Motor Sales Co., S. Detroit St., is agent.

The bodies swing extremely low to the road, are expressive of the highest art of body craftsmanship and finished in genuine duco. The Ajax Six presents an extraordinary group of major features to be found in no other car in Ajax price field which are sure to focus your immediate attention.

BUSY PEOPLE DRINK HURLEY'S PURE MILK

Ask the Business Woman what keeps her fit for her strenuous duties and perfect health and she will answer "I drink plenty of pure, fresh milk, daily." That is, the sensible woman in the business world will follow that rule and will be rewarded for the daily demands made on her strength.

Ask the Business Man what keeps up his "pep" and makes him physically able to manage his business and work with a keen mind and robust vitality and he will say, "Milk plays an important part in my diet."

Both learned this fact from childhood and in no matter what walk of life, the healthy man and woman have earned to regard pure milk as a factor in their food. Hurley's dairy is supplying Xenians with the freshest of milk to be obtained. Learn the secret of health by drinking Hurley's milk every day and you'll feel like a king.

REVIVALIST PLANS TO ADDRESS TRINITY CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Miss Elinor Millar spoke at First M. E. Church Friday night on the subject, "Jesus and the Samaritan Woman," before a large audience. She taught attendants a new campaign song and gave out testaments to young people, urging them to read a portion each day.

Miss Leona Keller sang a special selection. Miss Millar announced that next week, she will give four Bible readings in morning meetings.

She will speak briefly before the Young Men's Fellowship Class Sunday morning and will then go to Trinity M. E. Church, where she will speak to the Sunday School and preach at the morning hour of worship. At 7 in the evening she will again speak at a combined service of Trinity and First Churches at First Church.

Dr. F. W. Stanton, pastor of First Church will speak at the O. S. and S. O. Home chapel services at 8:30 and preach in his own pulpit at 10:30 o'clock on the subject, "The Gospel of the Open Door."

Mrs. A. C. Turrell will have charge of a special service at 6 o'clock in Epworth League.

COLORED SINGERS HAVE BEEN PRAISED BY PAPER CRITICS

Knoxville College Quartet, which will give a concert at First U. P. Church, this city, next Monday evening, has received much praise from the newspapers from Massachusetts to Alabama whose programs have been given.

Following an entertainment in Detroit, Mich., the Detroit Free Press said, "The colored quartet evoked many plaudits from the listeners. Telephone calls requesting continuance of the program started at the conclusion of the first number and continued until the announcer gave out information that the quartet could sing no longer."

On invitation of the First and Second U. P. Church of Xenia, they will appear Monday evening at the First Church. There will be no reserved seats and the program is announced for 7:30 o'clock. No admission will be charged but a silver offering is to be received, all of which will go to the quartet.

A crowded house is expected and any overflow will be cared for by opening the Sunday School auditorium.

EX-POSTMASTER OF XENIA IS BELIEVED OLDEST IN COUNTRY

Thomas G. Brown, 235 N. Sixth St., Coshocton, O., former Xenian, for many years a successful journalist in various parts of the United States, and an Ohio postmaster, lays claims to being the oldest retired first class postmaster in the country and one of the oldest newspaper men in the United States.

Mr. Brown now executive of the Coshocton Red Cross chapter, was born November 10, 1848 and was appointed postmaster in Xenia in 1877. He was re-appointed by President Arthur, and served until 1885 in the Xenia postoffice under four presidents—Hayes, Garfield, Arthur and Cleveland. He was the youngest first class postmaster in Ohio at the time of his appointment.

Mr. Brown was for many years active in state and national politics in different capacities and was active in metropolitan newspaper work with the Chicago Times, Cincinnati Commercial, New York Tribune and New York Herald.

He later successively edited the Xenia Torchlight, the Republic of Springfield, O., and the Republican of Ironton.

Mr. Brown was also a charter member of the Associated Ohio Dailies in 1887, which held its annual meeting at Columbus this week.

SOCIETY IS SEEKING RECORDS OF SOLDIER DEAD OF REVOLUTION

Catherine Greene Chapter, D. A. R., has received an appeal from Mrs. Orville Dailey, state chairman of Revolutionary Graves, for records of soldiers buried in Ohio soil. The communication reads as follows:

"For five years the Daughters of the American Revolution of the State of Ohio have been collecting data on the burial places of all soldiers of the Revolution who have been buried in Ohio."

"In the early days families had their private grave yards on their own farms and unless a member of a family kept some data on deaths, all sources of information is lost for stones have crumbled away, and the plow-share has turned over the soil that was once the resting place of a soldier-pioneer."

"Realizing that such records are of great value to posterity, and because so many demands come from western states to the state of Ohio asking for data on ancestors who settled here after the war these patriotic women have searched old cemeteries, hunted out dust-covered records, secured information from descendants, and made many journeys to country burying grounds to read epitaphs, that no soldier might be omitted from the honor roll."

"Putting thought into action secured from Governor Donahay instructions to Adjutant General Henderson to plan for the printing of the list, with a part of this data, by the State of Ohio for their files in the Soldiers Record department, that Ohio might honor the soldiers of the Revolution who sleep on Ohio soil, and that such valuable information might be available for public use."

"Therefore the Ohio Daughters are making this appeal to the descendants of Revolutionary soldiers who are buried in counties of Ohio where there is no D. A. R. chapter, to be certain their ancestor's record is filed with Mrs. Orville Dailey, Albany, O., who has been state chairman of this work for the past three years, and has added 500 names to the record of 500 passed on to her by Mrs. Eugene Kennedy, Dayton, Ohio.

"Give all data and mail in by March first. When there is a D. A. R. chapter in the county send names to the Regent, who will verify, as the names might have been recorded. This is a duty."

There are forty-two Revolutionary graves in Greene County, according to members of the local D. A. R. chapter, all of which have been marked by that society. Last year, Mrs. Dailey sent to all Ohio chapters asking members of the Historical Sites and Revolutionary Graves Committee to prepare a map of early Greene County, recording places of note, early settlements, colleges of learning, Indian trails, monuments marking historical sites and other notes of interest.

Mrs. S. O. Hale was chairman of the committee, which prepared the map and was assisted by Miss Emma C. King and Dr. W. A. Galloway.

WILBERFORCE

Mrs. A. Scurry of Xenia and Miss Ellen rances Talbert of Detroit, Mich., called on friends in the community Thursday. Mrs. Julia Gee-Hunnicut, who was called to her former home by the death of Mr. H. C. Clay, returned to Cleveland Wednesday.

Miss Margaret Chenault, bookkeeper in the accounting department of the University was called to Richmond, Ky., by the continued illness of her mother. Miss Adeline McNair of the Commercial Department will act as substitute during Miss Chenault's absence.

Miss Ruby Calloway of Atlanta, Ga., has completed her course in the Normal Teacher Course and accepted work in the public schools of Morgantown, W. Va. She was given a farewell reception by the young ladies of the "Hotsy-Totsies" Club before taking her departure.

Miss Wilma Russell, on account of health, has withdrawn from school and returned to Charleston, W. Va. She expects to return next fall and complete her work.

Mrs. S. J. Richards, former instructor in the Carpentry Department, and Mr. Bruce Johnson of Columbus, spent Sunday with friends.

President Gilbert H. Jones left for Marshall, Texas, Tuesday night to attend the Association of Negro Colleges. The purpose of this association is to improve the curriculum and standards of the various schools under the direct supervision of the negro churches in the United States and foreign fields.

Miss Orlean S. Rice of Birmingham, Ala., and Miss Natalie Irene Vallow of Wilmington, Delaware, having completed their work in the Teacher Elementary Course, left Monday for their respective homes.

Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, president, Columbus; Bishop J. H. Jones, Rev. J. S. Jackson, Columbus; Rev. B. F. Williams, Toledo; Rev. Charles Bundy, Cleveland; Hon. Harry C. Smith, Cleveland and Captain Walter Thomas, Mansfield, members of the trustee board of the C. N. I. Department at Wilberforce, attended the board meeting Tuesday to consider bids for the building of three cottages, sewer work and other improvements of the plant.

The legislature last year gave a very liberal appropriation for the work. The bids were taken to Columbus by the assistant architect, Mr. Scott, to be reviewed before the work is given to the lowest bidder.

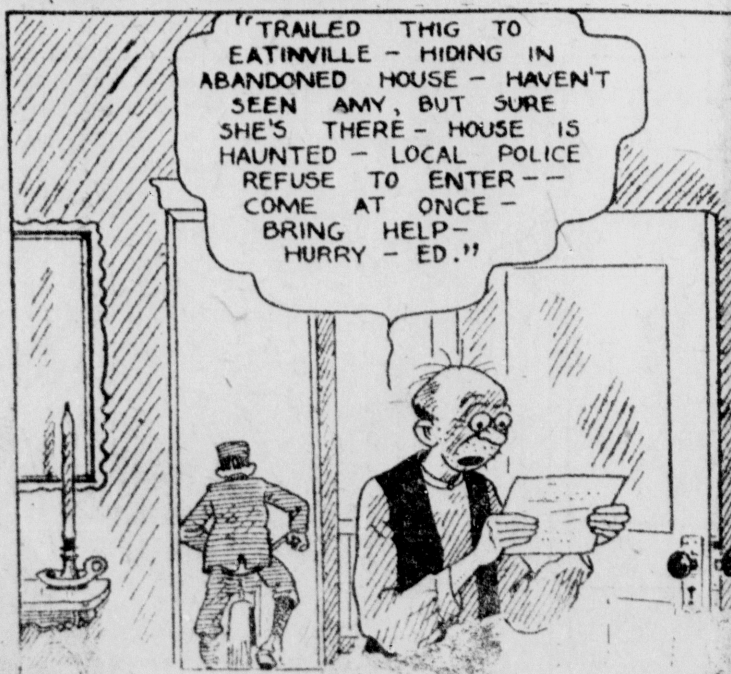

The University was honored last week with a visit by Captain C. J. Steubel of Dresden, Germany, who is making an extended survey of land conditions in the southern states for the German government. Captain Steubel received his law degree from the University of Leipzig and is a specialist in French and English literature. He visited the classes in German and French at the university

By all odds the most important feature of your meal is the coffee. The memory of a fine cup of coffee will linger long after the rest of the menu has been forgotten.

"E" BRAND COFFEE

can always be depended upon to furnish a pleasant memory. No finer quality coffee grows. It is perfectly blended and roasted, is steel cut and is rich in the aromatic oil upon which coffee flavor depends. Because it is packed in airtight paper cartons (instead of tin cans) and is sold at a close margin of profit you get this high grade coffee at an average cost.
